Looking back

Election, construction leave mark on 1979

Romulus and Huron Township residents shared in several newsworthy happenings during the year 1979.

Highlighting the year's events was the re-election of Mayor William M. Oakley to a second term in office. Oakley was opposed by Mel

Morgan, well-known business developer, who spent heavily in his campaign to oust the incumbent. Following the election, Morgan admitted his organizations lost steam at a critical point just before the election due to the lack of leadership among his supporters. Once in office, Romulus made headlines with the announcement by the mayor that the city was suffering a "shortfall" of nearly $1 million. He blamed poor accounting procedures over the years, a fact confirmed by newly-elected Treasurer Beverly McAnally.

The city's accounting firm, Doyle,

Litt and Co. of Troy, said the city had not followed recommendations made by them and other auditors hired by the city over the last several years.

To temporarily ease the money crunch, Oakley announced a cut-back on city spending and council approved transfer of about $380,000 from two escrow accounts in the sewer and water department to the general fund.

An indicator of how confused the city's finances were was noted by McAnally, who said the $380,000 transferred should have been about $600,000. The shortage was due, she explained, to money earmarked for the two escrow accounts not being deposited there for a period of five months.

Also making headlines was the lawsuit filed in 1978 by Ed Rush, city florist, and which ended this year when council agreed to pay his legal fees, if he would drop the suit.

Rush, who now sits on City Council as the result of publicity generated by the lawsuit, filed suit because he said the council violated the State Open Meetings Act by holding a closed session and discussing items not previously announced.

In August, a solution seemed to be at hand for the foul odors coming from the Trouton Drain, a source of perennial complaints by city residents. The state attorney general's office filed suit against Chemical Recovery Systems charging that wastes from its lagoons were seeping into Trouton Drain. It ordered the firm to clean up its operation or face stiff fines.

Just last week, a first was recorded in Romulus with the opening of the Tigris Restaurant and Supper Club at Van Born and Merriman roads. George Yousuf of Southfield said his new establishment is the first supper club in the city.

It is located at 10000 Tigris Road, a blue-lit recreation area with a moving light show and for the Stock Exchange quaterly bellydancers and a top-flight band.

Romulus School Supt. James Garfield recently made the news with his announcement that he had asked the school board to relieve him of his duties as soon as it could find a successor.

Garfield asked the board to assign him to another less-demanding administrative position in the school district.

He said recent passage of school millage now paved the way for new blood in the position of school superintendent and that he felt it was time for him to step down. He indicated the stress of fighting for school millage and other administrative demands were taking their toll on him.

In Huron Township, the biggest news of the year was the groundbreaking last week of Space World on 132 acres of land near New Boston. The space-oriented theme park will cost an estimated $32 million and is expected to provide a financial shot in the arm to the Huron Township area.

News also was made recently when Treasurer Richard Sullivan surprised the township board and audience by announcing his resignation. Repeated requests by some board members to reconsider his action were turned down by Sullivan.

Behind the scenes, it was reported that the treasurer and some other elected officials were having differences.

Other township news was the building of a new dog pound and remodeling of the Waltz Community Hall through the efforts of Supervisor Roy Raker, newly-elected Republican.

Just visiting

Vice-President Walter Mondale stopped briefly in Romulus last week and was welcomed to the city by Mayor William Oakley (right) at Hilton Airport Inn. The vice-president was here to meet briefly with state and local party leaders as part of a campaign swing that included several other stops in the Midwest. Pictured are the vice-president (from left), John Dera, assistant hotel manager, Darlene Spanski, hotel director of sales, and her son James, 9, and a young boy, 10, who were moving to the city.

Last week city children had the opportunity of having their pictures taken with Santa for $1. Special picture taking project was sponsored by the Recreation Department.—ANP photo.

Amendment makes smoke detectors in homes 'must'

Recent action of Romulus City Council now makes it mandatory for smoke detectors to be installed in all buildings or structures in the city in which families or households live or in which sleeping quarters are provided, with or without dining facilities.

As defined by the new amendment to the city's smoke detector ordinance, a "residential unit" includes single, multiple and mixed occupancy buildings, and 2-family, multi-family, apartment house, boarding house, tourist house, dormitory and senior citizen and adult foster care facilities.

The new ordinance amendment also stipulates that "one or more smoke detectors, in good working order, shall be installed in all family residential buildings. A minimum of one smoke detector shall be required to be installed in each residential unit, within 15 feet of any doorway leading to a room used for sleeping purposes. In addition, smoke detectors shall be required to be located at the uppermost ceiling of all interior stairwells."

Contained ... is an opportunity for citizens to protest...

Under the amendment, occupants of residential units may install their own single station smoke detectors without obtaining city permits or getting approval of the fire department for the building department. However, they must install them in locations spelled out in the smoke detector ordinance.

The necessary city permits and approvals must be obtained, however, if the single station smoke detector is directly connected to the electrical system of the building, or if it is installed by any person hired or reimbursed for the installation.

Contained in the language of the ordinance is the opportunity for citizens to protest it by circulating petitions within 45 days after publication of the ordinance amendment in the local news publication.

The petitions must be signed by at least 6 percent of the registered voters in the city at the last election in which a mayor was elected. Should that happen, the ordinance amendment would be suspended, and council would reconsider the measure.

At state, county, local levels

Investigations into CUFA 'sprout'

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

At the state level, Rep. Robert Law has asked for an investigation into the alleged faulty fiscal practices of Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA).

A non-profit services-to-the-poor organization, CUFA is situated in out-Wayne County.

That investigation, being conducted by the Michigan House Fiscal Agency (MHFA), though, is stymied until CUFA officials respond to that agency's inquiries, according to Ron Russell, a MHFA budget analyst.

County Commissioner William Joyner has also lost little time in seeking a County Board of Commissioners investigation into the administrative practices of CUFA. The county will question alleged conflicts of interest by CUFA executive officers and board members, in addition to its hiring practices.

And at the local level, Inkster officials remain skeptical of CUFA. The city's recently instituted moratorium on transacting business with CUFA still stands, and at a public hearing last week city officials kicked off their own investigation into the activities at CUFA.

"You know CUFA has had a history of problems since its inception," Russell said. "We weren't aware of some of their problems, though, until we were given the word to investigate the allegations made by your newspaper."

Russell, coordinating the state investigation, was charged with checking for any discrepancies, which may have been "overlooked" by the Michigan Department of Labor's Bureau of Community Services (BCS), the department mandated to monitor CUFA activities.

MHFA also was commissioned to request that CUFA respond to the 4-part series of articles by Associated Newspapers (ANP) reporting on CUFA, according to Russell's assignment sheet.

"But to give you some idea of the flavor of the ball game, we only have control over state dollars, not federal," said Russell, noting that of the approximate $125 million allocated annually to the 30 community action agencies (CAA) across the state, about $2 million of that figure represents state money funneled through the BCS.

To complete matters, Russell said, "they've (CUFA officials) been co-mingling their state and federal funds, so it makes it very difficult to tell where our dollars are at."

Officials from the federal Community Service Administration (CSA) say they know all too well that the bulk of community action agency's funding is within the realm of their responsibility.

John Macomber, public information officer at CSA's Washington headquarters, said his office is continuously in receipt of complaints against community action agencies. Although in the case of CUFA, he said, he never received correspondence about complaints from the Michigan-Wisconsin Region V, Chicago, Ill., offices.

"We've been kept in the dark," Macomber said.

He noted that CSA usually will not defund an agency if its problems revolve around an executive director, but that the sum of the efforts of the agency must have failed and management must be so poor that it has lost favor in the community, no longer being viewed by residents as a viable asset.

Who decides if a community action agency, such as CUFA, should be terminated?

"The buck stops with us. We at CSA do the cutting," said Adrien Zubrin CSA's director of public services. "And that happens more...much more often than we'd like to admit."

"The problem is that there are an inordinate amount of community action agencies, but over the years there has been a decided lack of interest and financial support to poverty programs since their inception during the 'War on Poverty' years in the 1960s."

According to the federal register, in 1965 approximately 15 percent of the total federal budget was devoted to poverty programs. Today less than 6 percent is earmarked for poverty-related projects.

"Just a few years ago we had our employees making complete winter wardrobes in the offices. The phones had locks on them, and they practically moved us out, said Ms. Zubrin. "Agencies were allowed to run wild."

There are nearly 1,000 community action agencies across the country, with thousands of delegate agencies, in addition, according to CSA records.

Just recently one of those community action agency in Los Angeles, Calif., was defunded, following an investigation by "60 Minutes", Ms. Zubrin said.

But that regards federal action and federal dollars. At the state level it is a different situation, Russell said.

Although Russell said he will be calling the BCS to task if it is determined that state agency has been negligent in its duties to oversee CUFA activities, it will have to be the Department of Labor that decides whether to take any reprimanding action.

According to Russell's preliminary report, it wasn't until this summer that BCS received CUFA's long overdue audits, from fiscal 1975 and 1976, nor did BCS conduct a comprehensive monitorization study of CUFA until this summer.

CUFA has been a recipient of state assistance funds since 1976, according to BCS.

"We can't get excited about this," Russell said.

Seaman Dean Jessie deployed in Indian Ocean

Navy Seaman Dean E. Jessie, the son of William and Rosemary Jessie of Bell Road, New Boston, has deployed to the Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the destroyer USS David R. Ray, homeported in San Diego, Calif., and currently on deployment as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

The Ray is a part of a carrier task force, which departed the Philippines for the Indian Ocean to join another task force operating there. During the deployment he will be participating in training exercises with the other 7th Fleet ships and those of allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in Africa and the Middle East.

A 1975 graduate of Huron High School, he joined the Navy in October 1976.

Also in the armed forces:

Richard P. Creith, 21, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Creith of Kosmay, Belleville, has enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, departing for six weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

Following completion of the training, Creith has been guaranteed training as an aerospace ground equipment mechanic.

Upon graduation from technical training school, Creith will be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Brian K. Taylor of Willis Road on Nov. 29 enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program, according to S. Sgt. Edward J. Lehmann, Air Force recruiter.

Taylor, who attended Milan High School, and is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force on December 19, 1979. Upon graduation from the Air Force's 6-week basic training course, he will receive technical training as a security specialist.

He will be earning credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

Richard A. Cooper Jr., the son of Mrs. Thomas E. Rowlett of South Telegraph, Romulus, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of airman first class.

Airman Cooper is an aircrew egress systems repairman with a unit of the Strategic Air Command at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y.

The airman is a 1978 graduate of Airport High School in Carleton.

Navy Machinist's Mate Fireman Mark O. Stubben, the son of Arthur

J. and Romaine A. Stubben of Outer Drive, Belleville, has reported for duty aboard the amphibious cargo ship USS Durham, homeported in San Diego, Calif.

He joined the Navy in January 1976.

Ronald L. Hurt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Estill Hurt of Dellor Road, Belleville, on Nov. 27 enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program, according to S. Sgt. Edward J. Lehmann, Air Force recruiter.

Hurt, a 1978 graduate of Belleville High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force on Dec. 26. Upon graduation from the Air Force's 6-week basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive 15 weeks of technical training as an aerospace ground equipment mechanic at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., and will be stationed at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla., his guaranteed base of choice.

He will be earning credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

Bonds add series

The Treasury Department has announced that the new Series EE savings bonds, which go on sale effective Jan. 1, 1980, will be called U.S. Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE, and will receive a 1/2 percent bonus, if held to maturity.

The interest rate on U.S. Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE, will be increased from 6.5 to 7 percent for bonds held for the full 11 years to maturity. Series E bonds that have not finally matured and U.S. Savings Notes ("Freedom Shares") also will receive the 1/2 percent bonus, if they are held for 11 years from the date of the first semiannual interest period that begins on or after Jan. 1, 1980. Bonds and notes redeemed earlier will not receive the bonus.

The redesignation of the bonds as Energy Savings Bonds is intended to help focus attention on the national goals of reducing energy consumption and increasing domestic supplies. The bonds were known as Defense Bonds before and after World War II and as War Bonds from 1941 to 1945 reflecting the national concerns of those times. The Energy Savings Bonds will assist in financing the large federal energy expenditure required in the coming years.

After June 30, 1980, all U.S. Savings Bonds bought through payroll savings plans will be Energy Savings Bonds, Series EE. Series H and HH Savings Bonds will not be affected by these changes.

Thomas Edison said that one of the most exciting events in his life was when he heard his own voice being reproduced on the first record player. It was just about one hundred years ago that Edison recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb" into his recording device and imprinted his voice on a cylinder. Although his voice came out much higher pitched than it really was, Edison knew that he had found a way to apply the theories of sound reproduction to an actual mechanism that could reproduce that sound.

DO SURVIVORS OF A SUDDEN-DEATH FEEL THE "STAGES OF DEATH"?

In her book, On Death and Dying, Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross indicates that the acceptance of any death usually goes through these stages: shock and denial; great anger and trying to place blame; a brief period of bargaining followed by a long and often deep depression; then, hopefully, ultimate acceptance of the facts of life - and death.

Dr. Kubler-Ross further states that the survivors of sudden-death victims must go through the same stages of grief as for survivors of those whose death comes slowly.

Reading about and becoming better acquainted with the stages of grief can provide insights for thoughtful contemplation. Reaching a point of understanding how others have had to cope with similar situations can provide strength and consolation at the time of death of a loved one.

We have quite a few books and lists of others which may assist you in coping with your loss of loved ones. We stand ready to help you as best we can. Remember, your needs are our concerns.

Reaching out

Christmas season means different things to different people, and for those at Inkster's Counterpoint youth runaway shelter, it usually means more disillusioned young persons knocking at their doors and reaching out for help. "We'll be there too," said Barbara Bergman, Ms.

Bergman and other staff personnel at Counterpoint will be open 24 hours, 7 days a week to make those who visit the center feel welcomed during the "sometimes roughest season of them all" — Christmas. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Christmas: Busy time at Counterpoint unit

Christmas season is expected to be a busy time for the staff and volunteer workers at 715 Inkster Road, Inkster.

Because it is this time of year when many teens will find themselves emotionally distraught, lonely, disillusioned and looking for answers to their problems. Perhaps those problems stem from their families, with school, or simply because the holiday season didn't prove to be what it had been cracked up to be like.

That's when those at Counterpoint take action.

"The doors will be knocked on more at Christmas than people realize," said Community Education Coordinator Barbara Bergman.

Ms. Bergman explained that at Christmas some teen-agers are sufficiently disrupted emotionally to the point that they cannot return home.

"Kids want to go home, but by the same token running away is a healthy act. We don't condone it, because we'd much rather they resolve their problems at home," said Ms. Bergman, "but it is good in that they're asking our help and reaching out. It's a way of trying to grab people's attention and saying 'I've got to talk this one out.'"

Admission is voluntary. Counterpoint in Inkster is to serve families in out-Wayne County. It is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, receiving clients or telephone calls for assistance.

No records or information regarding parents or young people will be released without written permission.

It is a place where young people ages 12 through 17 can find safe temporary shelter while they work with a trained staff to explore ways they can better cope with their problems, the problems which may have caused them to run away or consider running away from home in the first place.

"We're often asked how we judge the effectiveness of our direct client services," said Nancy Alexander, executive director of Counterpoint. "And many people are surprised to find that we track the living situation of all our clients 90 days after termination of services."

The more than 275 young people who pass through the Counterpoint Runaway Shelter each year can expect to be greeted with the warm and enthusiastic voice of volunteers like Barbe Kremosky. Counterpoint's residential services follow-up worker, who speaks with young people and their families in order to find out how that family is doing.

Barb, and others, do follow-up work on the telephone, in personal interviews and by mail. In addition, the follow-up worker offers program assistance with referrals for presently needed human services and with crisis counseling, when they find that is what is needed by the person on the other end of the telephone, before anything else can happen.

Family reunification and diversion of status offenders from the juvenile justice system are the primary goals of all of the out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition Inc., Ms. Alexander noted.

"The young people we see in our various projects can be labeled status offenders, or potential status offenders, when in reality, they are young people who are exhibiting behaviors which sometimes stem from the fact that many of their families are unable to offer them a nurturing place to grow up," Ms. Alexander said.

Those persons at Counterpoint, she said, intervene by examining and confronting angry behavior by all members of the family. They work to find ways of expressing wants and desires, which will achieve the desired outcome of their clients by working with parents as well as the runaways.

"We aid the parents in acquiring the skills and needed services which will positively affect a family's desired goals," she added.

Success at Counterpoint is measured in small steps, but those steps can have large impact. Officials at Counterpoint can show parents and children ways they can spend 20 minutes a day communicating in a non-angry manner, hearing feelings and meeting a common ground, then "we will have made an important start," Ms. Alexander emphasized.

Counterpoint is a part of a network of human services which include schools, churches, social agencies and concerned friends.

Of course, there are some basic rules for those who take advantage of Counterpoint's services, and Christmas is no exception.

No drugs or alcohol are permitted, no sex, no weapons, and no violence will be tolerated by Counterpoint personnel. Everyone must attempt to contact parents and guardians within 24 hours, and if possible, everyone must attend school.

All those at Counterpoint must attend their counseling sessions, and everyone is responsible for the upkeep of the house.

The holidays is a time when people are usually in a charitable mood, willing to give to others more than they usually would, noted Ms. Bergman.

There are ways, indeed, in which parents and others interested may take part in Counterpoint's goals. Volunteers play an important role at Counterpoint, Ms. Bergman said.

Volunteers provided everything from medical assistance to carpentry, to counseling to recreation. If the program interests you, if you want to participate, Ms. Bergman urges you to call 563-5005. Additional training will be offered at Counterpoint for those who wish to acquire special youth service skills.

Or you can be a foster parent, she said, offering the special individualized attention, often found critical in giving young persons the self-confidence and self-esteem in setting them down the right path in life.

School assistance is also needed, and often best in the form of tutors. School art supplies can always be put to good use, too, Ms. Bergman said.

Extra clothing is needed, because sometimes young persons knock on Counterpoint for adequate clothing.

And, of course, funds always are needed.

Especially at Christmas, Ms. Bergman, however, asks parents and interested parties against offering their assistance by bringing runaways into their homes.

It is in conflict with state and federal regulations and the kids cannot be kept.

"We know they mean well,"

"We can't just let them go to people's homes for Christmas or things like that," said Bergman. "But we can train them to foster parents, and as a short term solution, get the kids to those homes."

Counterpoint's primary fact, is to get those runaways who they most usually belong, and that is back at home.

Faust (D) of the Westland and Canton Township communities, Keith said CUFA's problems best exemplifies when good intentions go sour in the "wrong hands."

"It makes me fear that those programs we're working on now to help the poor won't turn into CUFA's," said Keith.

In Huron Township

Construction at Space World starts

Robots, government officials, financial people and local children joined together in a ground breaking ceremony Dec. 14 in the countdown to launch Space World, a $32 million theme park on 132 acres next to I-275 in New Boston, 23 miles southwest of Detroit.

Space World will be the first theme park in the United States to use "the future" or "space" as its theme. Space World also is the only new theme park near construction in the United States and the first in Michigan history.

Space World will be built at the northeast corner of Exit 8 on I-275 and Will Carleton Road on former farm land. The completed development will create 250 full-time positions and 2,000 part-time entry level jobs.

Construction will begin shortly and enable public admittance by the summer of 1980 with the complete grand opening a year later.

Theme parks utilize a central image-evoking atmosphere to blend together amusement rides, games, shows, crafts and demonstrations, educational exhibits, restaurants, shops and attractions. The development of the modern theme park industry in the United States began with the opening of Disneyland in southern California in 1955. Since that time, several additional theme parks have been successfully established including Disney World (Florida), Kings Island (Cincinnati, Ohio), Six Flags Over Texas, Busch Gardens (Florida), Carowinds (North Carolina) and Marriott's Great America (Illinois).

Space World has been modernistically designed and will present space and futuristic experiences. All activities in the park will be on a 100-day seasonal basis, approximately May 31 to Sept. 7.

Space World is leasing about 60,000 square feet of usable concession space available in the various buildings to be located within the theme park, but will corporately operate the park, live shows and attractions with professional staff and be responsible for additional construction and maintenance.

Space World, Inc. has been under the direction of scientist-businessman Dr. Philip R. Austin since its inception. Dr. Austin, 43, has been chairman of the Board of Directors since planning, zoning and financing began three years ago.

Leading to the incorporation of Space World, Dr. Austin served as president and chief executive officer of Contamination Control Laboratories Inc., a firm dealing with the design and production of clean rooms and clean-room equipment. He has consulted for NASA and private industry on the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo projects, as well as on Mariner and Voyager.

"We have been putting together an experienced team of theme park business managers," Austin reported. "Mike Adams, vice president of operations at Space World was formerly with Taft Broadcasting and their Kings Island (Cincinnati) and Kings Dominion (Richmond, VA) theme parks. And Mike Mitchell, our director of marketing was formerly with Opryland, USA (Nashville) and Carowinds (Charlotte, N.C.)."

During the ground breaking ceremonies, Dr. Austin expressed his appreciation for the dedicated public interest and leadership demonstrated by several people in moving Space World to reality —

Huron Township Supervisor Roy Raker, the Huron Township Board of Trustees, the Planning Board, Zoning Board of Appeals, State Sen. James DeSana, Michigan Department of Commerce, Michigan State Travel Bureau, Environmental Protection Agency, Michigan Department of Transportation, Department of Natural Resources and Governor William Milliken.

Keeva J. Kekst Associates, Architects, of Cleveland has been retained by Space World and is the firm which provided master planning and architectural design services for the National Recreation Service of Atlanta, Ga., for the renovation of its four theme parks.

Orchard, Papke, Hiltz and McCliment, Inc., a consulting engineering firm whose clients include Wayne and Washtenaw County Road and Drain Commissions, Ford Motor, GM, Michigan Bell, the townships of Ypsilanti, Pontiac and Superior and the cities of Livonia and Farmington, already has been at work at Space World.

Space World Inc. has also retained the 77-year old Michigan law firm of Monaghan, Campbell, McDonald & Norris; the public accounting firm of Arthur Young & Co., and McMaster Associates Public Relations.

For the period of one week, 3- and 4-year-olds operated a barber and beauty shop, a general store, a restaurant, and a hospital in a special project called "Our Little Town." Planned and taught by vocational child care students in Jan McMurtre's class, the special program had children dressed in real uniforms and used authentic equipment in performing services and selling products in their miniature town. (Photo by Romulus High School occupational photography classes.)

Investigations:

like that," said James Norman, director of BCS. "I'll admit though that there are some areas (mentioned in your articles) that are of some concern to us, areas we didn't know about."

"But if the truth be known, half the social services agencies across the country should be closed down. Who's going to do it? Not me."

Norman said that in past years federal money allocated by CSA was dispersed directly to CUFA. He said 1980 will be different in that some of that federal money will be funneled through the state BCS, allowing for another "check" to the purported system of checks and balances.

Added state involvement, however, said Norman, may prove to lengthen the funding process, delaying program start-up dates even longer than in past years.

"The problem is the President just signed the damn bill to give us funds, and we've been out of funds for three months," Norman said. The termination date for program year 1979 was last May, although the date was extended to August.

Program funding for 1980 was anticipated by CUFA personnel to be available in October.

Responding to the state's inquiries, Norman told ANP: "We're in a new wave energy concept. The fiascos of 1975 through 1979 within the social services agencies trying to provide the poor with energy assistance will have been forgotten by 1983, or so... when the kinks are out."

CUFA has been in operation since 1972, and Norman noted it has taken the general public "this long to begin their revolution."

"They'll forget soon enough," he said.

Meanwhile, however, CUFA is on the minds of some Wayne County commissioners.

Joyner, a Western Wayne County commissioner, is demanding the county's Office of Aging Director Dante Divitto and James Curren, director of operations and program development and coordination over Manpower, justify the hiring of CUFA employees and its board chairman William McGill.

"The programs are now under a great deal of fire, and I want some answers," said Joyner who represents nine out-county communities.

Thus far Joyner is without answers.

Inkster officials aren't faring much better. Last week Mayor William Daniels and City Council members interviewed Lillian Bullard, Inkster's city representative, who is on the 36-member CUFA Board of Directors.

Ms. Bullard said she was not attempting to evade public officials' inquiries into CUFA activities, but that she too, has been without critical fiscal documents and program information.

"When I'd ask Mrs. Conyers (Jean Conyers, Executive Director of CUFA) for the information she told me and others we were picking at garbage," Ms. Bullard said.

Ms. Bullard has been without information regarding statistics on the number of residents serviced by CUFA, whether employees in that agency's weatherization program still are without bonding and liability insurance (ANP learned CUFA was without bonding and liability insurance for more than a year) and monthly budget reports.

From July of 1979 through October, Ms. Bullard noted actions were taken at the monthly CUFA board meetings without a board quorum, insisting information is "deliberately kept from most of the board who represent the poor."

She said she was unable to report which programs are operating efficiently, when council members like James Collieran inquired if Inkster was "sending good money after bad" in investing in CUFA.

Withholding of funds by state called 'illegal' by Manning

The intent of State Budget Director Gerald H. Miller, announced several weeks ago, which would deny Wayne County its routine payment of revenue sharing from Michigan income taxes is an idea "clearly illegal," according to Richard E. Manning, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners.

Manning challenged the legality of Miller's decision on basis of research and opinion from the County Office of Corporation Counsel, and sent Gov. William G. Milliken his third telegram in protest.

The final telegram quoted Milliken a section of the State Revenue Sharing Act of 1971 which reads: "Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the department of administration shall cause to be paid during each August, November, February and May, to counties on a per capita basis the collections from the state income tax..."

Despite the jeopardy of December paydays for nearly 5,000 Wayne County employees, Miller said earlier that he would withhold the approximate $4.6 million because the county owes more to the state.

Miller's claim involves a dispute over whether the county or the state owes regarding hospital care for mental health patients. According to Miller, the county owes the state more than $7 million, but Manning charged Milliken in an earlier protest with a state debt of $7 million for services provided while the state was considering purchase of the Walter P. Reuther facility in Westland.

The County Office of Corporation Counsel and the Board of Auditors, as well as the Board of Commissioners, insist that the state's billing procedures for the health care services are inauditable and not presented in enough detail to lawfully fix county obligation.

Subsequent to Manning's first telegram and others sent by Commissioners Alex Pilch of Dearborn and Clemens E. Bykowski of Detroit, Milliken has arranged a meeting between state and county financial officers "as soon as possible to seek a fast solution."

Milliken said he was unaware of the conflicting situation, and Miller reportedly made the decision to withhold entirely on his own authority. Seeking Milliken's personal intervention, Pilch said in his telegram that Miller's decision was "ill advised" and a compounding of the county fiscal distress. "There is a serious, legitimate question of the state's claim against the county for mental health payment, which enhances the unreasonableness of Miller's retaliation against innocent parties—namely Wayne County employees," Pilch said. He added that Miller's decision was considered "bureaucratic black-jacking."

Bykowski emphasized in his message to Milliken that the state bill was inauditable and illegal in its present form, and that denial of the funds is a threat of payless paydays during the Christmas season. "Taxpayers deserve their fair share, and we request your help," Bykowski added.

Proposed sale of the Walter P. Reuther facility, which the state intends converting into a psychiatric hospital, has been under consideration for many months. The transaction has been approved by all necessary committees and both houses of the State Legislature. Milliken was expected to sign legislation on Dec. 20, authorizing the purchase, which will provide funds that the auditors anticipate towards meeting payrolls on time this month before regular annual tax receipts expected in January.

Sale of the Reuther facility, located within the County General Hospital complex at Merriman Road and Michigan Avenue, will net the county about $3.2 million at a time when it is experiencing severe cash-flow problems. County employees missed a payday on schedule in October and current cost of living allowances (COLA) are overdue.

According to information from the Board of Auditors presented during a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee on Dec. 13, however, the Reuther sale and other income will assure scheduled paydays throughout December and possibly provide payment of COLA before the end of the month. Quarterly COLA payments for county employees average about $900.

In addition, according to the report, the Auditors plan emergency procedures for immediate payment of jurors and vendors.

Harris appointed to WC economic development panel

Wayne County Commissioner Edgar Harris (D-Taylor) has been appointed to the 11-member County Economic Development Corporation (EDC), an independent, non-profit organization designed to stimulate local and commercial and industrial development.

The appointment was announced recently by Richard E. Manning, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Harris, recommended by Manning, was serving the unexpired term of Commissioner Rosemary Robinson of Detroit, who resigned from the EDC board earlier this year. Harris' new term ends in July 1985.

Commissioner Harris originally served on the Wayne County Commercial-Industrial Advisory Council in 1974 and, on the recommendation of that council, presented a resolution to the Board of Commissioners in 1975, creating the EDC under Public Act 338.

Named to the EDC board along with Harris was Commissioner

Martha G. Scott of Highland Park. Barely nine months in operation, the EDC already has provided for issuance of up to $40 million in revenue bonds for financing nine commercial and industrial projects, creating 800 permanent jobs, with indications of more to come.

The Board of Commissioners authorized the EDC as an independent organization to serve all 43 communities of Wayne County. Members of the board are a cross-section of business, commercial, government, industrial, labor and community interests and are appointed to fill varying terms which will eventually extend to six years.

Among projects approved for a bond issue and awaiting a public hearing and final adoption by the Board of Commissioners are two facilities for Little Caesar's Restaurants, $1.4 million, in Redford Township and Taylor; and the Grosse Pointe Cable Inc., $5 million, in Grosse Pointe Farms. Seven other projects are in various stages of development.

Kick 'habit' on Jan. 6

Smokers who really want to "kick the habit" for the '80s will get all the help they need Jan. 6, when "The Great New Year's Cigarette Send-Off" comes to Detroit's Cobo Hall.

"This is more than just a public demonstration against smoking," explained Tom Banas, executive director of the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, the event's sponsor. "The 'Send-Off' is a carefully planned 3-hour self-help program that will bring the most successful anti-smoking methods together for the first time."

The two complete sessions, offered at 1-4 or 6-9 p.m., will accommodate up to 7,000 people, making this the largest known anti-smoking program.

Southfield psychotherapist Barry Beder will use hypnotic techniques to convince participants to make this year's stop smoking resolution their last. He'll also demonstrate how hypnosis has helped thousands of smokers throw their cigarettes away for good. A special cassette tape recording will be provided with each paid admission, for follow-up "self hypnosis" at home.

American Lung Association board member Bruce Dubin, D.O., will share the latest medical findings, provide proven stop smoking tips, and conduct tests on selected members of the audience that will show marked alterations in bodily functions as a result of smoking.

Participants also will be treated to dramatic film highlights of smoking effects as well as an inspirational performance by Detroit vocalist Ortheia Barnes.

"What could be a better Christmas gift to a smoker than a ticket to 'The Great New Year's Cigarette Send-Off'?" Banas asked.

Tickets, priced at $12, are available at all Hudson's ticket offices, or by calling 961-1697. Proceeds will benefit the American Lung Association's ongoing research and services for those afflicted with lung diseases.

VA benefits jump 9.9 percent

Checks reflecting a 9.9 percent increase in Veterans Administration (VA) compensation payments will be mailed at the end of December to more than 2.25 million veterans, 235,000 surviving spouses and more than 85,000 children of deceased veterans, according to VA Administrator Max Cleland.

The increased payments were authorized by Congress and were signed into law by President Carter Nov. 28. They are retroactive to Oct. 1. A separate adjustment check covering the increased amount due in November and December will be mailed during the latter part of December.

The new rates mean that a veteran with a service connected disability rated at 10 percent will receive $48 a month, up from $44. The rate for a 50 percent disability goes from $232 monthly to $255, and a veteran with a 100 percent disability will receive $889 monthly, an increase of $80.

Additional amounts providing up to a maximum payment of $2,536 a month (up from $2,308) are paid for specific severe disabilities.

The new legislation also increases by 9.9 percent the added amounts paid for dependents to veterans rated 30 percent or more disabled.

The clothing allowance paid disabled veterans whose use of a prosthetic or orthopedic device wears out or damages clothing was increased from $218 to $240 yearly.

Also increased were the rates of Dependency and Indemnity Compensation paid survivors of veterans whose deaths were due to service connected causes or veterans totally disabled from service connected causes whose deaths were not the result of such disabilities.

Certain children of these deceased veterans also receive increased compensation under the new legislation. They include unmarried children under 18, as well as certain older helpless children and those between 18 and 23 who are attending VA-approved schools.

Shirley Wilson really wasn't certain she could afford the $1 for the 50-50 raffle ticket, but she couldn't resist the smile of Tanya Marie Ann, 5, who was selling the tickets on behalf of her school PTA. The sale was completed and Shirley turned out to be the lucky winner, collecting $305 in prize money. The youngster is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shelton of Tyler Road, Romulus. A kindergarten student at Niedermeier School in Newport, Mich., she made the winning sale at a coffee break organized by the Kwik Helpers CB Club, of which Mrs. Wilson is a member.

On rent increases

Bill would amend mobile home act

Mobile home park owners could not arbitrarily raise rents for park tenants under legislation, introduced Dec. 4 by State Rep. Thomas Brown (D-37th District). The proposed legislation, House Bill 5247, would amend Public Act 419 of 1976, the Mobile Home Commission Act, by requiring the Mobile Home Commission to develop a model mobile home park rent structure, and would provide for the establishment of local mobile home park councils.

House Bill 5247, which has been referred to the House Committee on Towns and Counties, chaired by Brown, was developed to address problems expressed by mobile home park residents in recent public hearings.

"We are planning several public hearings on HB 5247 during the holiday recess," Brown announced.

Under this legislation, the Mobile Home Commission, in consultation with a mobile home park council created by a local unit of government, will promulgate a model mobile home park rent structure. Then, park owners and operators would have to submit a rent structure to the commission that states the components and means of calculating rent charged for mobile homes and mobile home sites, and any increases or decreases in the rent for the tenants of each park. The mobile home commission would be charged with approving or disapproving the rent structure within 30 days of receiving it.

If the commission disapproved the rent structure submitted, the owner or operator of the park would be notified, in writing, and the model mobile home park rent structure previously promulgated would be the rent structure for that park until the owner submitted a rent structure, which was approved by the commission.

Under HB 5247, a mobile home park owner or operator would be prohibited from renting mobile home sites, or both, under a rent structure that had not been approved by the commission, that permitted alteration of the rent agreement after its commencement without the written consent of the tenant, that failed to provide notice to existing tenants 90 days before the expiration of the tenant's lease of any increase or decrease, or that permitted an increase in rent or other charges greater than the increase in the inflation rate.

The legislation also spells out the composition of a 9-member mobile home park council, along with the council's duties. The legislation also specifies that park leases must be in compliance with PA 454 of 1978, the "Truth in Renting" Act, with the additional requirements of statements regarding utility charges and who is responsible for them (park owner or tenant), regarding common facilities for recreational or other tenant activities, and whether there are any charged in addition to the monthly rent that the tenant will be required to pay in order to make use of the mobile home or site, including charges for an easement, parking space, or other property or facility, and the amount of the charge.

The legislation contains a provision that the owner or operator of a mobile home park may change the rules of that park, if the change is considered necessary for the physical health, safety and peaceful enjoyment of the tenants and guests. Each tenant would have to be given a written copy of a change in park rules at least 90 days before the change would become effective.

County to hire a manager

Contingent on receipt of funds actually in hand, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved the hiring of a management specialist who would temporarily serve the county in a capacity similar to hired managers of cities.

The requirement for "money in hand" was an amendment offered by Commissioner William L. Sullivan of Wyandotte to a resolution approved by the Commissioners during a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee on Dec. 13. The resolution specified funding for the position from outside the county to prevent conflict of interest, according to Commissioner Arthur M. Carter, sponsor of the proposal.

In arguing for approval, Carter said the county needs a new "community credibility" in someone trusted to take a "fresh look" into county affairs. He said the concept has precedent in similar arrangements for Board of Education, various city and other county governments and Detroit Recorder's Court.

"The idea asks for no more than what has been provided for other jurisdictional units," Carter said. "We need someone new in their outlook, with a fresh view to make recommendations. This would give us the advice of an experienced eye trained toward impartiality."

The resolution calls for a management specialist hired by a task force of county commissioners until May 1 to:

- (1) Supervise an independent audit of the books of Wayne County.
- (2) Represent the county before the legislature and the Municipal Finance Commission.
- (3) Develop a plan for either a reduction of services or an increase in revenue for the operation of Wayne County by May 1, 1980.
- (4) Maintain a daily account of expenditures in all departments in order to report cash flow problems to the board through the Fiscal Crisis Committee on a day-to-day basis.
- (5) Make specific recommendations to the commission regarding fiscal and organization problems which would present a balanced budget during the course of the 1979-80 budget.
- (6) Other such duties as determined by the Board of Commissioners.

Commissioners William G. Suzore of Lincoln Park and Kay L. Beard of Inkster spoke against the proposal. Suzore complained against "too many existing task forces already" and said that another study would not contribute much, however sincere its intent.

Mrs. Beard questioned whether recommendations of a non-elected person would have impact and value on departments such as the Sheriff, Register of Deeds, Treasurer, County Clerk and Drain Commissioner, in addition to the Board of Commissioners.

"I doubt that such a person would have any clout with other elected officials," Mrs. Beard said. She suggested that such authority should instead be given to an elected county officer, such as the chairman of the Board of Commissioners.

Carter said that was tried in the past and determined unfeasible because state statute disallows more authority for the chairman over other commissioners except as already stated.

"The chairman is equal among us," Carter pointed out. "To try to give him more power than already authorized would pose a legal problem, whereas we could give that authority to an outside person without legal danger."

Things that matter: Take Christ out of Christmas?

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

The United Presbyterian Church wants to "take Christ out of Christmas" in the public schools.

The 2.5 million-member denomination has filed a brief with the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, opposing the singing of Christmas carols in the schools.

The church, through its elected head, William Thompson, Stated Clerk of the denomination, maintains that the singing of Christmas carols and the presentation of Christmas pageants in public schools "debases the deep religious significance" of the holiday and "serves to secularize the songs, drama and symbols that are used."

The Presbyterian Church, in its brief, also appeals to the constitutional separation of church and state.

In response to a question as to how the singing of Christmas carols debases the observance of Christmas, Thompson said:

"When you put a prayerful Christmas carol side by side with a rock and roll rendition of 'Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer,' it dilutes the religious significance of the carol."

The Presbyterian Church is joining with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in appealing a ruling by a U.S. District Court judge in St. Louis who held that the singing of Christmas carols in the schools does not violate the constitution.

"Because Christmas music with religious content has been assimilated into our culture," said Judge Andres Bogue, "this court finds that the performance of Christmas music with religious content does not constitute a religious activity per se."

The judge was ruling on a suit filed by the ACLU against the school board in Sioux Falls, S.D., on behalf of the father of a kindergarten pupil in the public school there.

In a Christmas assembly in 1977, the pupils sang "Joy to the World" and "Away in a Manger," among other carols. The program also included a nativity scene.

When Judge Bogue ruled against the plaintiffs, an appeal was filed by the ACLU. The United Presbyterian Church joined in the challenge to the judge's ruling.

There is evidence that many Presbyterians — in both pew and pulpit — do not agree with their church's stand on Christmas music in the public schools. Nor do all agree with Thompson when he says he also is opposed to mixing religious and secular Christmas music — even on such TV programs as Lawrence Welk or a Pery Como Christmas Special.

"If the only time we or our children can sing 'Silent Night' or 'Joy to the World' is in church, we would sing these songs only about twice a year," remarks one Presbyterian woman. "That's not enough for me. And I love to hear these songs on TV."

While the Presbyterian Church was singing, "Away With the Manger," some seventh graders at a Catholic school in Garfield Heights, Ohio, were expressing opposite sentiments.

They think there isn't enough Christ in Christmas.

They gathered 4,500 signatures on petitions and presented them to the manager of a large shopping mall, asking that a religious display — like a manger scene — be set up there among the secular Christmas decorations.

They got their way. This week the merchants gave the children permission to erect a nativity scene in the mall. Copyright 1979 United Feature Syndicate.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 26
Read Romans 5:1-5

"We rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance, and endurance produces character, and character produces hope, and hope does not disappoint." (Romans 5:3-5 RSV)

The little stone house sits back from the road, sheltered by giant oaks. There was a time when somebody lived there. They do not live there anymore. The house has become a barn. From floor to ceiling it is stacked with bales of hay. Cracked windowpanes, sagging screens, overgrown flower beds, and the mottled cow which has made the lawn her private pasture, all bear witness to neglect.

I do not know the story behind this scene. Driving down the road at fifty miles an hour, I missed many things. Still, there were enough to keep my mind churning long after the house passed from view. Perhaps somebody had a dream that never quite came true.

I sensed an unexpected tugging at my feeling of sadness that I could not ignore — a warm kind of joy trying to break through. I then remembered that is what is left behind that puts things in perspective. This is what old log cabins, tattered flags, and empty crosses are all about.

PRAYER: O God, help us never to forget that suffering and endurance are but the stepping-stones to character. Let our hope find lodgment in Thee. Let not our regrets over what has been blind us to what is yet to be. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: God helps us through our disappointments.

Tradition not so old

Christmas: A work day until mid-1800s

By DAVID M. MAXFIELD
Smithsonian News Service

Christmas, you may be surprised to learn, was a work or school day for many Americans until the mid-1800s.

The traditional American Christmas, in fact, is not very old at all. Gift-giving, card-sending, tree-trimming and other present-day customs did not become widely popular until the final decades of the 19th century, arriving then as a package of Victorian style and business zeal.

For many years, Thanksgiving actually was far more special than Christmas in New England. In the South, firecrackers were set off Christmas morning; colored eggs decorated evergreens in Dutch settlements along the Hudson River, and well into the 1800s, Santa Claus was portrayed as quite a small, elfish figure sometimes capped off with a feather.

"Technical developments, advances in transportation, printing and mail services probably were responsible for the enormous change and popularization of Christmas Day in the Victorian period," said Shirley Cherkasky, a sociologist responsible for holiday research at the Smithsonian Institution's Division of Performing Arts.

"Certainly, the publication of Charles Dickens' 'A Christmas Carol,' with its themes of charity and good-will, affected the idea of how people felt Christmas should be observed," she added.

Early in the country's history, the Puritan settlers believed Christmas should not be observed at all, and in 1659 the celebration was outlawed in Massachusetts by the decree: "Whoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas and the like...shall pay for each offense five shillings to the country."

The Puritans associated Christmas with the Church of England, a painful reminder of their struggle for religious freedom. The Dec. 25 holiday, they strongly felt, was a human invention, a fabrication: Christ's birthdate was unknown, and therefore, the day should never have been ordained by the Church. The Puritans also didn't care much for the occasion, thinking it too closely linked to the spirited pagan celebration of the winter solstice.

But in New York, Pennsylvania and the southern colonies, Christmas was another matter altogether. The Anglicans, Dutch Reformed and Roman Catholics in these regions celebrated with music, dancing, feasts and family gatherings. A French traveler, visiting the home of a Virginian in the 1680s, reported: "There was a great deal of carousing. He had sent for three fiddlers, a jester, a tightrope dancer, an acrobat who tumbled...they gave us all the entertainment one could wish for."

"Today, if you're talking about getting back to a more religious holiday, you might remember that Christmas used to be pretty wild," Cherkasky noted. So wild that one early custom called mumming—knocking on doors, ringing bells, rattling cans and shooting off firearms—got completely out of hand in Baltimore late in the 1800s, falling into decline when quieter residents complained.

After years of struggle, the Massachusetts Puritans in 1681 repealed their antiholiday decree, apparently won over by two reasons—the seasonal joy they could see in their neighbors experiencing, plus the protection the U.S. Constitution gave to the separation of church and state. The Puritans, according to social historian James H. Barnett, were less inclined to oppose the secular celebration when it was no longer a symbol of the political and religious dominance of the Church of England.

But some in the colony still were not reconciled to the decision. Complained one Judge Sewell: "I believe that the body of the People Profane it; and blessed be God, no authority yet to compel them to keep it." In 1856, though, Massachusetts joined the growing list of states giving legal recognition to Christmas Day—the first being Alabama 20 years earlier.

By the mid-1800s, Christmas spirit was on the upswing throughout the country. Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," published in 1843, helped bridge local and regional differences in holiday customs. Its themes of kindness and generosity, according to Cherkasky, crossed many cultural and regional boundaries, thereby helping to universalize the Christmas celebration.

In 1868, Dickens gave readings of the tale in the United States and, after one appearance, he wrote: "They took it so tremendously last night that I was stopped every 5 minutes. One poor young girl burst into a passion of grief about Tiny Tim and had to be taken out."

As it did in other areas of American life, the Industrial Revolution began to influence the way Christmas was observed. Christmas cards, for example, could be produced and mailed inexpensively, gaining wide popularity by 1875. And for better or worse, the first holiday advertising appeared in the 1830s.

But it was not until late in the century, when the business and pleasure of gift-giving began in earnest, that elaborate Christmas celebrations became an annual American experience.

"Gifts at first were given mainly to children, servants and tradespeople," Cherkasky noted. "It was a time for evening up accounts. But that was all to change."

"The folk-secular aspect of Christmas was taking precedence over its religious one," Barnett said. "This was apparent in the increasing importance of Santa Claus." Thomas Nast's drawings in "Harper's Weekly" portrayed Santa for the first time as a jolly, white-bearded character dressed in fur.

The popularity of the Christmas tree grew right along with the change in social customs and technological progress. After Queen Victoria set up a Yuletide tree at Windsor Castle, the style was set, reaching the White House in 1865 during Franklin Pierce's Presidency.

Thomas Edison's lab came up with a string of tree lights in 1882, 3 years after the incandescent light breakthrough, and immediately this novel idea became the rage among the wealthy. Christmas tree parties to show off the expensive, lighted trees were major social events.

Today, of course, the Christmas season is the sum of many traditions.

"We're so encrusted with a whole set of things to do, compared to the time when the season was really quite simple," Cherkasky said.

In "A Book of Christmas", British author William Samson puts it this way: "Christmas from whatever angle you look at it is complex. When the English-speaking countries sit down at lunch time to a 'traditional Christmas dinner,' they eat Aztec bird beside an Alsatian tree, followed by pudding spiced with subtropical preserves..."

Yuletide decorations

Members of the Romulus Eager Beavers proudly posed before their Christmas creations at the Harrison School Center, during a recent visit from Mayor William Oakley and City Treasurer Beverly McAnally. The group, partially funded by the City of Romulus, is headed by Mrs. Geneva Ford. Composed of adults who have some physical or mental handicap, the Eager Beavers is an active group that regularly lunches together, participates in a wide variety of projects, one of which was to make the dresses the women in the photo are wearing, and travels to places of interest. Showing off their Christmas decorations were Mrs. Celeste Fisher (from left), Irene Valentine, Joyce Wooden, Eric Butler and Vernon Folsey. (Photo by Jay Young)

Save-a-Life Days slated for Sunday and Monday

On Save-A-Life Days, this Sunday and Monday, the Dearborn Blood Center will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The 2-day blood collection is part of a concerted effort to avert a critical blood shortage, which traditionally faces the American Red Cross during the busy holiday season.

"We are inviting all of our good neighbors in the West Center area to give a gift of life, a blood donation," said A.W. Shafer, MD, director of the Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood

Services. "To give a gift of life requires only that you be between the ages of 18 and 66 and in good general health. Our 17-year old friends can also donate but must have parental permission."

Group donations are greatly reduced during the holiday season, Shafer related, because many industries and businesses are closed.

"But hospitals are not and we must provide for patient needs no matter what the season," he added.

Now in the sixth year, the Save-A-Life program has been successful in helping provide blood to meet these patient needs during the busy holiday period, Shafer said.

To make an appointment to donate a gift of life—blood, call the Dearborn office at 274-3900.

"Before you make your appointment, Dr. Shafer said, 'Invite members of your family and friends to donate blood when you do, or at another time during one of the Save-A-Life Days. What better way to start off the new year than by thinking of others less fortunate than you?'"

Ad Briefs:

The Ford Division of the Ford Motor Co. has announced that Hugh M. Betts recently attained membership in the prestigious Ford Society of Professional Sales Counselors for 1979.

Membership in the Ford Sales Society can be attained only by those qualifying Ford salespersons who display outstanding achievement during the calendar year.

Betts currently is employed with Atchinson Ford, located at 9800 Belleville Road, Belleville, and has been a professional salesperson there since 1964.

The society is a professional organization created by the Ford Motor Co. to honor top automotive salespersons.

Reflecting the growing prominence of women in business, Barbara Stimach of Belleville has been honored for outstanding sales achievement.

Ms. Stimach is a sales director in the independent field marketing organization of Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc. Her success as a sales leader has earned her the opportunity of using a free, new pink Buick Regal for up to two years.

To qualify for the award, she led her sales unit to become one of the top sales units in the Mary Kay organization in the last 6-month period.

From your Lawmakers

Lawmakers eye escrow law

By DAVID A. PLAWECKI
State Senator

The fall session of the Michigan Legislature has been a busy one with the Senate and House completing work on many important bills. When we reconvene in January, however, I am hoping that the Senate will take up consideration of three bills I have introduced that should be of special interest to homeowners and parents.

Senate Bills 121 and 122 would, if enacted, enable homeowners to earn interest on the escrow accounts that are commonly established for the payment of taxes and insurance on their home.

Senate Bill 833 would establish strict penalties for employers who let minors work without adult supervision.

These bills are now pending before legislative committees for study and I would encourage you to make your support for these measures known since public support can frequently hasten the passage of proposed legislation.

Of course, you will want to know more about why these bills were introduced, so let me share with you the reasons that led to the introduction of these proposals.

When a person buys a home and borrows money, the lending institution holding the mortgage often takes over the responsibility for paying the taxes and insurance due on the home. The typical homeowner's monthly mortgage payment to his lender includes an amount for property taxes and insurance and the lender puts that amount in a separate fund — called the escrow account — and pays the taxes and insurance when they are due.

If my legislation is passed, banks and other lending institutions will be required to pay three percent interest on these mortgage escrow accounts from the date the money is deposited to the date of withdrawal. This guarantees that homeowners will receive a return on a sizable amount of money that is going to be tied up for a considerable length of time in an escrow account.

Eight other states already require lenders to pay interest on escrow accounts and I believe this practice could benefit Michigan residents.

The second measure in this two-bill package would give homeowners the option of establishing an escrow account with the lending institution or of paying the taxes and insurance on their homes themselves. Currently, many lenders require an escrow account as a condition of loaning the money.

But if my legislation becomes law, homeowners who apply 25 percent toward the purchase price of their new homes, or who have obtained that amount of equity in the purchase price of their homes, could not be forced by a lending institution to establish an escrow account.

I introduced the bill requiring adult supervision of minors on the job in response to the September slaying of a 17-year-old Taylor gas station attendant who was working alone at the station when it was held up.

Although working permits issued to minors state they cannot work without being supervised by an adult, there is no tough state law to back that up. I believe that the existence of these penalties would help prevent any more tragedies of the type that occurred in Taylor.

The bill spells out the requirements very clearly and specifically states that a minor cannot be employed in an occupation subject to the Youth Employment Standards Act unless an adult supervisor is present during the minor's working hours.

Allowing minors to work unsupervised, along with other violations of the Youth Employment Act, would result in the following penalties:

• First offense — a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for up to one year and/or a fine up to $2,000.

• Second offense — a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for up to two years and/or a fine up to $5,000.

• Third and subsequent offenses — a felony punishable by imprisonment up to 10 years and/or a fine up to $10,000.

These new penalties established by this bill would supersede the present penalty for violations of the Youth Employment Act, which is a simple misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and/or a fine up to $100.

A teenager working alone can be an easy target for a robber. I believe it is the state's responsibility to provide some protection for these youths in the form of required adult supervision.

'79 review

Over the last year, the staff of the Associated Newspapers has attempted to provide your family with a local newspaper.

We hope we have succeeded. But what success we may have achieved, certainly fell short of our mark.

But not because we either didn't care or try hard, but because the members of our staff share with you a basic flaw common to the human race. Their humanity.

Three years have now passed since David J. Willett repurchased these newspapers from the Panax Corp. in 1976.

Much has changed in those three years, but much has remained the same.

We have included in our pages during that period, the happy stories of re-united families, the birth of new sons and daughters, the passing of the noted and obscure, political intrigue, and the development of our communities into better places to live.

But we have worked hard to do more than just report on our towns.

We have attempted to become an integral part of the community.

Our door has remained open to all and everyone who wishes to discuss our role in the community and how we may improve. We have not isolated ourselves in an ivory tower to simply observe and to report.

We have gone to the communities and participated in important events, because we felt, and continue to feel, that a local newspaper's role in society is far more complex than simply reporting.

We at Associated Newspapers sincerely appreciate the many people who have sprinkled us with kind words, just as we appreciate those who have showered us with criticism.

It is those people, people willing to tell us what they think, that provide the perspective necessary to make these papers even more in tune with today.

If you are willing to talk, our people are willing to listen.

Like the Dallas Cowboy football team, the Associated Newspapers has its share of 'super stars,' its share of people who never seem to shine, but nevertheless, always get the job done.

But it is those people who have dedicated themselves to the noble profession of journalism who manage to produce a better newspaper for you, week after week.

And it is those people who would like to wish you the very best in the coming years.

We hope also that the coming years provide only progress and prosperity for our communities, but regardless, our door will continue to remain open.

We have dedicated ourselves to working for you. We rededicate ourselves to that task now.

Tigris

Welcome to Romulus, Mr. George Yousuf. Yousuf, owner of the newly opened Tigris Restaurant on Merriman Rd., recently celebrated its grand opening with a host of local officials and other dignitaries.

Unfortunately, the news story concerning that opening was mishandled, and that private party was reported to be open to the general public.

We regret any inconvenience resulting from that error in our pages.

To the credit of the citizens of Romulus, and Mr. Yousuf, no problems resulted, but we are naturally distressed to have been involved in such a mistake.

We hope that the community will accept our apology for the error.

But the error did not change the fact that Yousuf has brought to Romulus an exceptional dining facility that will attract many to the community.

We take our hat off to Yousuf and the Tigris. Romulus needed you.

Making brown eyes 'Blue'

By DENNIS FASSETT
ANP Managing Editor

For the past several years, I have watched a near constant flow of would be, could be and might be, efforts at producing poetry.

And it seems that everyone afflicted with the urge to iambic pentameterize, ultimately sends a copy along to the local newspaper.

Speaking as a newspaper editor, I must confess that I am just a little uncomfortable with the task of separating the wheat from the chaff.

While I certainly have enjoyed my share of poetry, particularly Robert W. Service's 'Rhymes of a Red-Cross Man,' generally, my taste leans more toward the hard-hitting news story. But when accused by a friend of lacking courage as a result of this shortcoming, I refuse to take it lying down.

Unfortunately, you must pay the price. So lock up Thoreau, throw out Emerson, pitch Poe, and mash Mohammed. You are about to be exposed to the real thing.

Turning Blue

It's quite enough to turn you blue
The light is stuck and it's red for you

While waiting, patience disappears
You wonder why you're sitting here

Cross street traffic pays no heed
You're forced to question some workman's deed

To go would certainly risk the law
Remaining gains only pedestrian guffaw

A dilemma true
While turning blue

You see a break
Consider a dash
But such a course could risk your cash

The morning sun is now at noon
Again you curse some dumb baboon

Thousands more of walkers still Accomplish the cross and suffer no ill

A dilemma true
While turning blue

The bright noon sun is now at dusk
The twilight rays are colored rust

To back away would mean defeat
But good Lord man, you've got to eat

Bright red circles etched in mind
You hit the gas and hear gears grind

Free at last in time for bed
Forget at last your silly dream

Behind you hear the siren wail
This new found freedom could mean jail

A dilemma true
While 'Blue' writes Blue

I offer the above, not to gain your undying admiration, but to get it out of my system.

I am convinced that everyone who ever took up the pen, has at one time or another fought to suppress the urge to stroke the classic piece of poetry. But suppressing the urge is usually the best course, as I'm sure my efforts bear out.

But...

When deadlines near
And thoughts remain still unclear
I look at the moon and want to bay
What in the world can I write today?

Garfield lauded

Editor:

As members of the Romulus Board of Education, we wish to publicly thank Mr. James Garfield, Superintendent of Schools, for his many years of outstanding service to our community.

For those cognizant of the problems in education and school operations both past and present, his keen leadership and great patience has been needed and appreciated.

Needless to say, education has been served by James Garfield. We sincerely wish him continued success in his role as an administrator in the Romulus School District.

Crushing unions

Editor:

Regarding your editorial setting forth a seven-point program for crushing teacher unions. Let me suggest you add point eight; life imprisonment for striking, and the electric chair if it goes over ten days.

Enjoyed your little joke at the end ".... we agree that teachers should be allowed to negotiate for improved economics and working conditions..."

Police view '79

Editor:

As I see it, 1979 was an extremely productive year for the Van Buren Township Police Department. We act in the capacity of a part time department, but we have become a professional unit. I do not know of any other department, that can boast of the percentages of not only certified, but qualified officers that Van Buren has.

Our most difficult times this year occurred when a new line of command, and new procedures were established. It is difficult many times for persons outside of the Department to understand that due to our budget, and manpower available (all officers hold outside full-time jobs that sometimes conflict) some decisions have to be made. Our qualifications are rigid and very high, but our policy has been and is flexible to ensure high morale and workable relationships. Our Supervisor and Police Commissioner have been more than helpful in securing the tools that we need — not to mention the least of all pleasant quarters and surroundings.

We have Command Officers available in the office between 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. daily, and available during the 18 hours per day that we presently patrol. Working out the 18 hour schedule is sometimes quite hectic to say the least, but the unity, dedication and quality of the Van Buren Police Personnel does make the schedule possible.

The work-load continues to increase, as does the population in Van Buren, but once again the concern and unity of purpose of our personnel, along with the cooperation of our citizenry, other township departments and top Township Administrators makes this all work together.

We thank the community for your support and ask that you stop by, give us your comments and views — we need them as this is important. We want to build our Department to reflect our Community.

CUFA

Editor:

I am writing to let people know that I too had signed up with CUFA a few years back.

I took in my bills and other material to show that I was qualified for their program. They said they'd get back with me. No one ever called so I called them again. They told me to contact Mr. Willie Webster (former energy coordinator) which I did.

He said he'd get back with me but no one ever called.

A year or so passed and I remembered again about CUFA and I called again on 11-18-79 and talked to Mr. Mark Heffner, he said they were helping the senior citizens right now and that project would be over with soon, and he would get back with me. No one ever called.

Then I saw the article in the paper saying this program is being investigated. Here I sit with the same problems I've had when I first asked for help about five years ago.

I also joined the food cooperative and I can say they sure didn't give you $15 of fruits and vegetables for the $5 we each paid.

I wasn't even getting a half bag of fruit. If you worked there or had friends who worked there you would get more fruits and vegetables. So I quit the program.

Still Need Help

EDITORS NOTE: (The Wayne resident's files at CUFA, obtained by this newspaper, showed her case was closed, though she never had any monies applied to her utility bills as promised by CUFA. CUFA records show $250 applied to her account. Utility officials insist no monies were ever received by them.)

World's problem, too little U.S. aid?

By EDWIN FEULNER

Columnist William Raspberry added to the confusion most of us feel concerning African politics, with his explanation of Nigeria's recent oil price hike.

Questioning the amount and quality of U.S. aid to African countries compared to that given Israel and Egypt, Raspberry suggested Nigeria was provoked into raising its prices because not enough U.S. aid is flowing into this oil-rich nation.

Nigeria, he said, "has been complaining for some time about the low level of U.S. aid, hinting that it might either curb production or raise prices or both in retaliation."

The Washington Post columnist went on to say, "four years ago, shortly after Nigeria became a major producer of petroleum, the United States closed its Agency for International Development (AID) office there, in effect cutting U.S. foreign aid to zero. Current projections are for about $3 million in aid to Nigeria for fiscal 1980."

The country in question here is America's number two source of oil after Saudi Arabia, and has received approximately $37.5 billion in oil revenues since 1973. In addition, the U.S. carries a chronic trade deficit with Nigeria of about $6 billion. Since the heady days of quadrupled oil prices in 1973-74, Nigeria's leaders, understandably enough, went on a fabulous spending spree, ending up with new roads, universities, improved port facilities, waste, corruption and rampant inflation.

Waking up with an excruciating hangover after this financial orgy, the oil-clogged Third World nation has been doing some fast growing up, including: a recent switch from military to civilian rule; electing an apparently competent, hard-working new president; and serious attempts to come to grips with the inflation and social problems shared by any country which becomes too rich, too, quickly.

Since the mid-seventies, U.S. aid to Nigeria has consisted mostly of loans of expertise rather than dollars. According to a State Department official who was in Lagos, the capital, from 1973-1975, the informal consensus among both Americans and Nigerians is that Nigeria does not want or need handouts.

Admittedly, the overwhelming majority of Nigerians are dirt-poor, managing to exist in dirt-floored huts in the bush, or crowded into packing-crate shanties in the unbelievably congested streets of Lagos. These ordinary citizens can only watch with envy or disbelief the fur-lined Mercedes of the upper crust, sitting in air-conditioned splendor in a Lagos traffic jam. The gap between rich and poor is staggering.

This gap, however, is not the doing of the U.S. Nor had it produced contempt for our way of life. Instead, Nigeria is one of the few nations in Africa where an energetic spirit of free enterprise and open competition is shared by even the poorest among the masses.

A large percentage of Nigerians are self-employed—from the man selling soap flakes on the corner to the market "mama" wearing her wealth in gold bracelets on her arms. The wealth at the top seems obtainable and inspires most other Nigerians with the urge to work hard and get ahead. As any visitor can tell you, the streets of Lagos, though full of poverty, also are full of vitality, with none of the hopelessness of a city such as Calcutta.

African policy-makers and so-called

Africa experts have been vacillating between what Nigeria could do to the United States if she wanted to, and what the United States should be doing for Nigeria. For the very reasons she is important — oil, population, and geography —this country can't be both a power house and a candidate for welfare. If asked, she would undoubtedly choose the former.

Motorist switch to airplanes because of gas woes

A record one million winter-weary Michiganders will visit Florida between the Christmas and Easter holidays with at least 100,000 vacationers switching from car to air travel because of concerns over possible gasoline problems, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Although some 90 percent of those traveling from Michigan to Florida in previous winters went by auto, we expect only 80 percent, or 800,000 persons, to motor south this winter," said Auto Club touring manager Joseph Ratke.

"It is noteworthy that while Auto Club member requests for Florida routings dropped 10 percent during the first nine months of 1979, our World Travel Department reports a 20 percent increase in airline reservations."

Ratke cited the continuing rise in gasoline prices, some fear over possible gas shortages in the future and special airline discount rates for luring more air travelers than in the past.

Surveys have shown Michigan second only to Ohio as a state of origin for motorists entering the Sunshine State.

Since Florida is such a popular wintertime destination, many hotels and motels with ocean or beachfront facilities, as well as those within easy driving of major attractions, are filled or nearly filled between Christmas and New Year's and from February through April.

"In the past, some families have been forced to sleep in cars because they arrived in Florida without reserved accommodations," said Ratke, who advises making reservations well in advance of a Florida trip.

Travelers to Florida this winter will find many new attractions. The Sunshine State's garden and water ski capital, Cypress Gardens near Winter Haven, now features an antebellum town called Southern Crossroads. It features theaters, a children's funland and novelty areas. The Living Forest section has an animal petting area, baby animal nursery and alligator lagoon.

Sea World near Orlando has a new Florida Festival area which features foods and products from around the state. The $6.5 million structure has a translucent canopy with an informal tropical garden housing artisans, shopping and dining pavilions. A 500,000-gallon shark tank will open in the spring.

In Tampa, Busch Gardens is recreating the legendary city of Timbuktu featuring rides, craftsmen from throughout the world, a dolphin show and the largest self-serve restaurant in Florida. Scheduled to open in March is a new 22-acre water park called Adventure Island. It has several swimming pools, a wave pool, tropical lagoons and a 300-foot-body flume.

Waltzing waters are created by 8,000 jets synchronized in rhythm with music and lights at a new indoor water show at Rainbow Palace south of Fort Myers. Weekly Wachee Springs boasts the world's first underwater magic show.

Other new water attractions include Pensacola's Wild Rapids, a 3-flume water slide, and Panama City's Whata-Water-Wonderland, an addition to the Miracle Strip Amusement Park.

From January to March, the Arkansas Explorer, a 42-passenger liner, is scheduled to make a number of sailings from Jacksonville up the St. Johns River to Sanford.

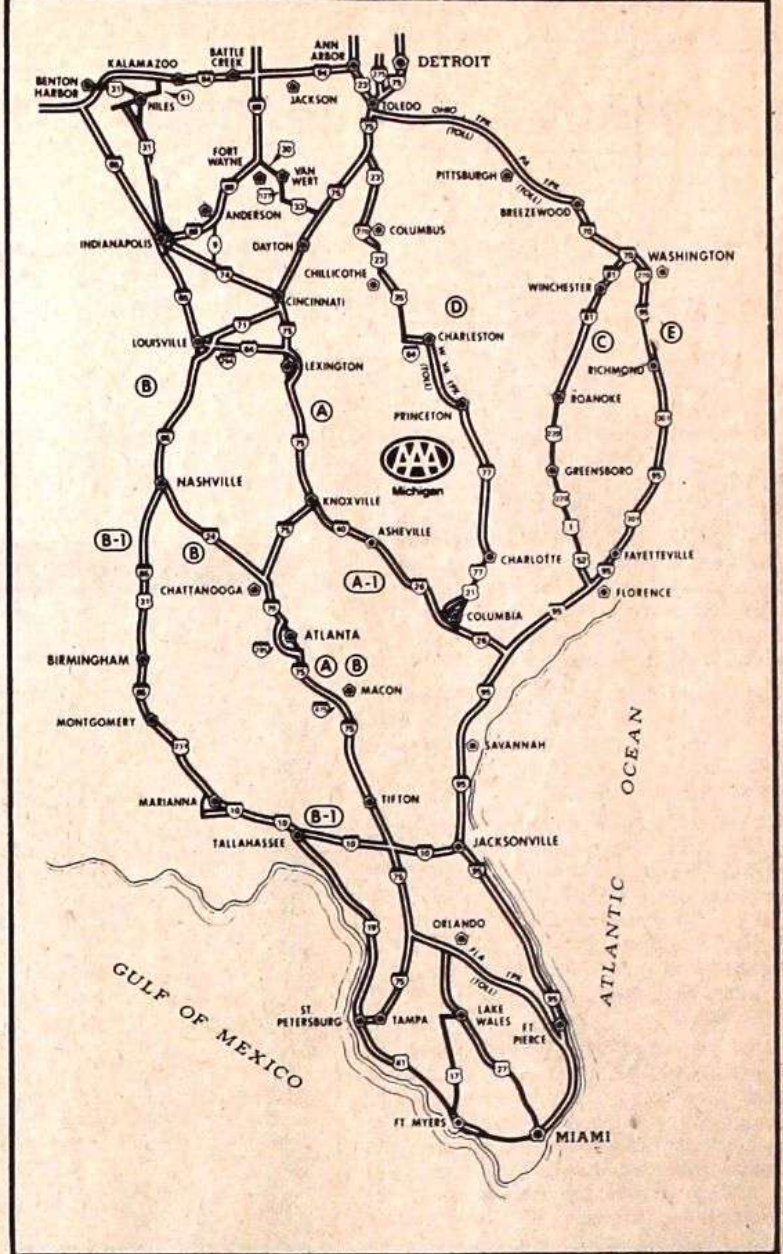

Florida accommodations also are being upgraded with a number of new and remodeled hotels and motels.

For travel by car, Route A on Auto Club's map is the express, 4-lane Interstate to Florida used by motorists in a hurry. Route A-1 is for travelers heading for Atlantic side Florida destinations who want to include the Smokey Mountains.

For western Michigan motorists, Route B is the most direct path. Route B-1 takes drivers through Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

Route C meanders through Virginia's Shenandoah Valley and the central Carolinas. Route D offers breathtaking view of West Virginia and North Carolina mountain scenery, but it should be avoided during cold weather months. Route E is for travelers who want to combine a trip to Washington, D.C., with a Florida vacation.

Southern Michigan motorists should allow 2½ days to reach the Florida state line and 3½ days to Miami.

Here's 14 ways to trim your energy consumption

The citizens of 20 industrial nations, including the United States, observed October as International Energy Conservation Month.

Consumers in all these countries have faced a large increase in the cost of the energy they use. Here are 14 easy ways for American homeowners (and renters who pay for utilities directly) to participate — and save money in the process.

The costs and savings estimates shown are based on U.S. national averages compiled by the Department of Energy. Dollar savings cannot be totalled because one energy saver often affects another, but by following all of these suggestions, you can save one-fourth on your fuel oil, gas, and electricity bills.

Wayne has best record

Holiday cage classic is graveyard for title favorites

Wayne Memorial's loss to Taylor Center Tuesday night shuffled the deck for the Western Wayne Holiday Basketball Tournament which gets underway Thursday night at Westland John Glenn.

But Wayne, which has never won the holiday classic, will be the outside favorite to win. Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras have a 3-1 over-all record, while two of the remaining three teams — Belleville and Glenn are still searching for their first victory and Cherry Hill, the defending tournament champ, will bring a 2-2 record into the classic.

"I still feel that any team can take it," said Schwartz. "These players know one another and when you have that kind of setup anything can happen."

Cherry Hill Coach Dave Bogataj, who is making his tournament debut, pointed out that "the records don't mean a thing when it comes to these two games. If you look back you find that the outcome of these games have been decided in the last minutes. They are always exciting match-ups. And favorites usually are targets for upsets."

Cherry Hill has won the last two tournament titles but the Spartans were led by Dick McNally, who has since left for a coaching position in the western section of the state. It is Bogataj's first appearance in this series as head coach.

Belleville and Cherry Hill kick off the tournament at 6:30 p.m. In the nightcap, Wayne will take on Westland John Glenn. The two losers will meet the following night (Friday, Dec. 27) at 8 p.m., while the winners will play for the championship 8 p.m. on Friday.

Meanwhile, Glenn failed to present its first year coach, Dan Henry, with a victory as the Westlanders dropped their fourth successive game 80-58 to Livonia Franklin last Thursday. It was Glenn's second straight Northwest Suburban Conference loss, while Franklin, after losing its league opener at Redford Union, evened up its record to 1-1 in the Northwest.

Glenn failed to score a basket in the third period and was outscored by its hosts 23-6.

"We made six free throws," Henry said. "And we couldn't buy a basket. We lost it then, in that third period."

Until then Glenn looked like it had solved its problems. Although the Westlanders trailed 20-13 after the first eight minutes, they came back as Dave Ward sank six points to tie it up 34-all at halftime.

Then came the disastrous third and before Glenn could recover, Franklin was well out of danger.

Bob Gohn led the Livonians with 21 points and he received support from Jeff Weber and Doug White who split 22 points between them. Tim Pr-

An athletic club born in Inkster

By JIM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Like Johnny Long of NBA and Detroit Pistons fame, Fred Smiley, the former All-American cager from Northwood Institute, has made many a basket during his exciting career.

FRED SMILEY

But, unlike the old generals, Smiley, at 30-plus, refuses to fade away.

He's not only shooting baskets these days, but the 5-10 guard is shooting to build an athletic club in Inkster.

"I have gotten so much out of athletics," Smiley said the other night, "and I would like to do something for others, so we talked and kicked around the idea of an Inkster Athletic Youth Association."

Smiley and a group of Inksterites who include Charles Penn, Willie Maull, John Jackson, Ollie Abraham, James Murphy, Craig Scott, Helen Scott and Juan Hull will try to field little league football teams this fall, and follow up with other athletic programs for the kids of the community.

"Right now, our main objective is to put together a football program for the kids in this city," said Smiley, who has become the IAYA's first president. "And one of the reasons why we want this organization is because many of our kids travel to neighboring cities to play football. And we felt it was about time that Inkster had its own little league program."

Obviously the group will need funds. Everything costs money, especially athletic equipment and uniforms. When you're talking about suiting up little league football teams that means uniforms for freshmen, junior varsity and varsity clubs. My computer says that will cost approximately $21,000. Where does the IAYA propose to get that kind of money?

"We figure to put on some benefit basketball games," Smiley said. "There are many other fund-raising projects we have on the drawing boards."

"However, how can anyone measure the needs of this kind of program in dollars and cents?" Smiley asked. "There is a need for this kind of program here, and we're going to supply it. And what we need is a lot of community support and parental involvement to make it a success."

Smiley pointed out that the IAYA will hold its inaugural public meeting 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 17 at the Inkster Recreation Complex on Middlebelt.

"We've talked to the city, the recreation director, Lou Jackson, and he's going to give us all the help and cooperation he can. And, we also have two members of the clergy involved — Rev. Kinkannon and Rev. Scott — because we want the kids who will participate in our programs to get more out of them than just athletics."

The IAYA has picked the right man, I feel, for its first president.

Long is short on NBA recognition

"Johnny Long is probably the most underrated guard in the NBA."

That statement is by someone who should know — James McElroy, the 6-3, 190-pound former Central Michigan star who plays in the backcourt with Long.

Long is probably the hottest shooting guard in the NBA these past few weeks. And he doesn't get the ink. In fact, the only place you'll find his name is in the agate, the family of type set aside for box scores.

After scoring 22 points against the visiting Philadelphia 76ers a couple of days ago, Long was voted the MVP by my colleagues on the media. It wasn't the first time this former Romulus all-star earned that accolade. He had been picked MVP more times this year than any other member of the team.

And one of the rewards that will go to the piston who has been honored as such the most times this season will be a diamond ring, valued at over $1,000.

JOHNNY LONG

But, in the world of high finance where multi-million dollar contracts are as common as a Billy Martin fight, Long would probably gladly slip the ring on someone else's hand if he could find his way into a NBA's All-Star game.

There is a good possibility that he will be chosen to that

Belleville diver sets record

On the bridge to becoming a super swim power, Belleville took another giant stroke toward that goal by burying Plymouth Canton, 122-50 last week, for their fifth consecutive victory of the season.

Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers grabbed all 11 first places, leaving the defending Western Six Conference champ with only two seconds.

Belleville received an exceptional performance from its senior diver, Pat McClelland, whose 277.95 winning total shattered the Plymouth Canton pool record and qualified him for state competition.

Chris Renton also continued his personal onslaught on setting freestyle record as he broke the five-minute barrier to win the 500-yard freestyle in a 4:57.0. That sterling effort eclipsed the old Canton record and was also a qualifying time for state.

Renton managed to pick up his second victory by beating state champ, Paul Peterson, to the wall in the 200-yard individual medley. Renton churned a 2:06.1 while Peterson turned in the second best time (2:05.8).

"But you should note that Paul had been sick," said Coach Vicchy. "I'm sure that if he had been healthy it would have been a far more interesting race."

Meet results: Belleville 122, Plymouth Canton 50

The man in the mask

Unlike the radio and TV hero who wore a mask and rode a silver horse, Wayne Memorial's Dave Shell (at right) does know who the man in the mask is. And the 112-pound grappler went about his way and beat him 4-0. The masked wrestler is Glenn's Mark Demers who wore the protective gear during the confrontation between the two arch rivals. Demers may have lost the battle, but he and his teammates won the war, 34-19. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Glenn outwrestles Wayne

Neither Westland John Glenn wrestling coach Bob Lusk nor his counterpart at Wayne Memorial, John Wood, have to worry about getting their respective teams up when their grapplers meet on the mats. The two teams are housed in the Wayne-Westland School District and are natural rivals.

The two coaches sent their troops to the battle lines last week and the matches were worthy of tradition. It ended in victory for Glenn whose dual meet record is untarnished.

Glenn took the first two weight classes as Pete Bologna pinned Paul Justice in 1:37 in the 98-pound class. The Westlanders got a hard-earned 5-2 decision when Mike Parsons outwrestled his 105-pound adversary, Mike Czaplick.

Crash landing

Westland John Glenn's Greg O'Neil is heading for a crash landing as Wayne's Frank Turgeon heaves his 132-pound rival to the mat. Turgeon managed to get one of the Zebras' six wins against their natural rivals, but it wasn't enough as the Westlanders claimed an impressive 34-19 triumph. After hosting the Ott Invitational last Saturday, Wayne returns to the mats to brush up for their first dual match of 1980 scheduled for Jan. 10 at home to Fordson. Meanwhile, Glenn will travel to Plymouth for the Salem Tournament set for Jan. 5.

Taylor cuts Wayne winning streak at 3

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Rams' slow-down tactics derail Zebras, 53-47

Taylor Center destroyed Wayne Memorial's hopes of going into Thursday's Holiday Cage Classic undefeated by edging the Zebras, 53-47.

The Rams' slow-down tactics on their home court threw Wayne's high-powered offense off tempo and caused the Zebras to take many poor shots in shooting only 35 percent the first half.

As a result, Steve Schwartz' warriors lost their first Great Lakes Eight tilt in three league games and stand 3-1 overall as they plan to meet John Glenn in the second game of tonight's double-header at Glenn. The first game starts at 6:30 p.m. and the Wayne-Glenn shootout follows at 8 p.m.

"They played a match-up zone defense and played a slow, deliberate style that kept us generally off balance," Schwartz said.

However, Wayne gave the Rams a scare before hitting the loss column for the first time this season. The Zebras, behind the hot hand of 6-3 forward Jamie Barber's eight points, took a 12-7 first quarter lead and led 23-22 at intermission.

But some uncanny long-range shooting by Taylor Center gave it the lead when they hit their first six shots of the third period. "They hit their first six shots of the third quarter and they were all long bombs, in the 20-24-foot range," Schwartz explained.

Glenn's Brian Griesinger, their guard, hit two in a row from the dead corner to give them a 36-33 lead at the end of three periods," Schwartz said.

Taylor Center only took eight shots the entire quarter, but hit six. Meanwhile, Wayne was struggling to put the ball in the hole over the Rams' sticky matchup zone defense.

Although Wayne wound up close to 44 percent (20 of 45) from the floor, their extreme frigidity in the first half caused its downfall.

Taylor Center dropped in 17 of 31 floor shots and was deadly from the foul line with 19 of 24, while Wayne only hit seven of 14 charities.

"We scored three more field goals than they did, but their accuracy at the foul line was too much for us to

Casey, Stewart lead Romulus past Jackson Parkside, 63-61

Romulus cagers returned from a road of anonymity to rejoin the ranks of the highly-touted by withstanding a late Jackson Parkside surge to win a close 63-61 decision.

The victory ended a two-game Romulus losing streak and re-established Coach Rod Hanna's Eagles as a team to be reckoned with. They're 3-2 on the season.

"We lost to a couple of excellent teams (Willow run and Ann Arbor Pioneer), so this game with Parkside was an important one," said Hanna who had Oak Park to contend with Friday night before the holiday break. "Jackson has an excellent team and we needed this one because it showed we can come back."

Romulus went into the Jackson duel without Darryl Lewis, one of their top scorers and rebounders. The Eagles were without starter Dave Holifield, who was tagged with three quick fouls, and sat out most of the game.

And Jackson didn't waste any time to capitalize on their good fortune. The visitors raced to a 16-8 first period lead before Hanna could make some adjustments.

"We went with two sophomore guards and it didn't turn out the way I expected," Hanna said. "Therefore, I had to make some adjustments."

Senior Mark Schick was switched into the backcourt to work with Bobby Stewart and the two managed to get their team rolling in the second period. Stewart scored six quick points and Stacey Shreve lofted three jumpers from the corner to bring the Eagles within one point, 25-24, of catching their visitors at halftime.

When they returned to the floor after intermission, Romulus' lanky center Dave Casey, held to two points the first two periods, went to work. He tossed in 12 of his game high 22 points in the third period, grabbed 18 rebounds and finished up with three steals as the Eagles overcame the deficit and went ahead 45-41 for three periods.

Parkside, which had retreated into a zone, could not stop Casey in the second half.

"When we took the lead it forced them to come out of their zone and Stewart did a nice job driving in four layups."

Stewart, who is a soph, wound up with 10 baskets and 21 points.

He's picking on Jackson cagers

Romulus' David Casey (24) maneuvers to set a pick on Jackson Parkside Robert Winfield (23) in last week's confrontation. Casey continued "to pick on" the visitors as he sank 22 points, collected 18 rebounds and grabbed three steals to help Coach Rod Hanna's Eagles win a close 63-61 victory. That victory snapped a 2-game Romulus losing streak and boosted the Eagles' record to 3-2.

Glenn bows to Franklin

systencki also was in double figures with 10.

Ward's 11 points stood up as the Glenn's top and Kevin Thweat added 10 for the Rockets who canned 14 of 24 at the free throw line as compared to Franklin's 32 of 44 output at the charity stripe.

Glenn, the defending Northwest Suburban Conference champ, lost a thriller to North Farmington, 57-49, in their league opener as junior guard Wes Whitner scored nine of his 14 points to lead the Rockets from a 9-8 first period deficit to a 29-23 halftime lead.

But the taller North quintet outscored the champs 13-8 in the third period and sealed the victory with a 21-12 advantage in the final eight minutes.

Whitner, the only Glenn player in double figures, had 14 points. North received a pair of 17-point efforts from Rex Baker and Brian Bowditch.

Franklin gave cross-town rival, Bentley, a scare before yielding in a heartstopper, 48-46.

"I was very pleased at the way our kids played," said Franklin Coach Jim McIntyre. "We have a small lineup, but we did a good job on defense. We missed a couple of easy lay-ups in the last period which could have turned this thing around."

Weber, in early foul trouble, settled for five points, and the slack was taken up by Jon McCarthy who scored 14 points.

Bentley gained a 16-9 first period advantage and stayed out in front 30-21 for the first two periods. Then

Franklin tightened the defensive screw, held the Bulldogs to four points in the third period and came away with a 34-all tie for three periods.

Bentley outscored their rivals 14-9 in the last period to remain undefeated.

Huron '5' jolted by Annapolis

New Boston's best game of the season was not good enough to stop a rallying Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Leading most of the way, Coach Gene Smith's Chiefs wound up on the shortend of a 26-20 last period that led to their second loss in four starts, 75-70.

"We played our best game against the best team we have played this season," said Coach Smith. "Unfortunately we just could not hang on. We led until the last period when their full-court press really hurt us."

Kermit Burke's staked the Chiefs to a 17-14 first period lead by dumping seven of his game high 23 points in that quarter. Huron stayed ahead 35-30 at the intermission, but Annapolis clawed back as Mike Turbin got hot. Turbin rattled the nets for eight of his 20 period and hit on two free throws that put the Cougars ahead for good in the fourth period.

In a game loaded with personal fouls, Huron connected on 26-of-34 chances as compared to Annapolis's 17 of 22. Burke got his 23 points on five field goals and 13 of 18 free throws. Teammate David Satneck was the only other Huron in double figures. He scored 20 points.

Earlier in the week Huron picked up its second win, 74-59, at the expense of Southgate Schafer as Burke scored a career high 29 points and Rich Stoklosa chipped in with 21, also a career high.

The Chiefs will return league competition on Jan. 4 when they travel to Flat Rock.

overcome," Schwartz said. As low as it was, Wayne's 47 point total was the most given up by Taylor Center this season in four games.

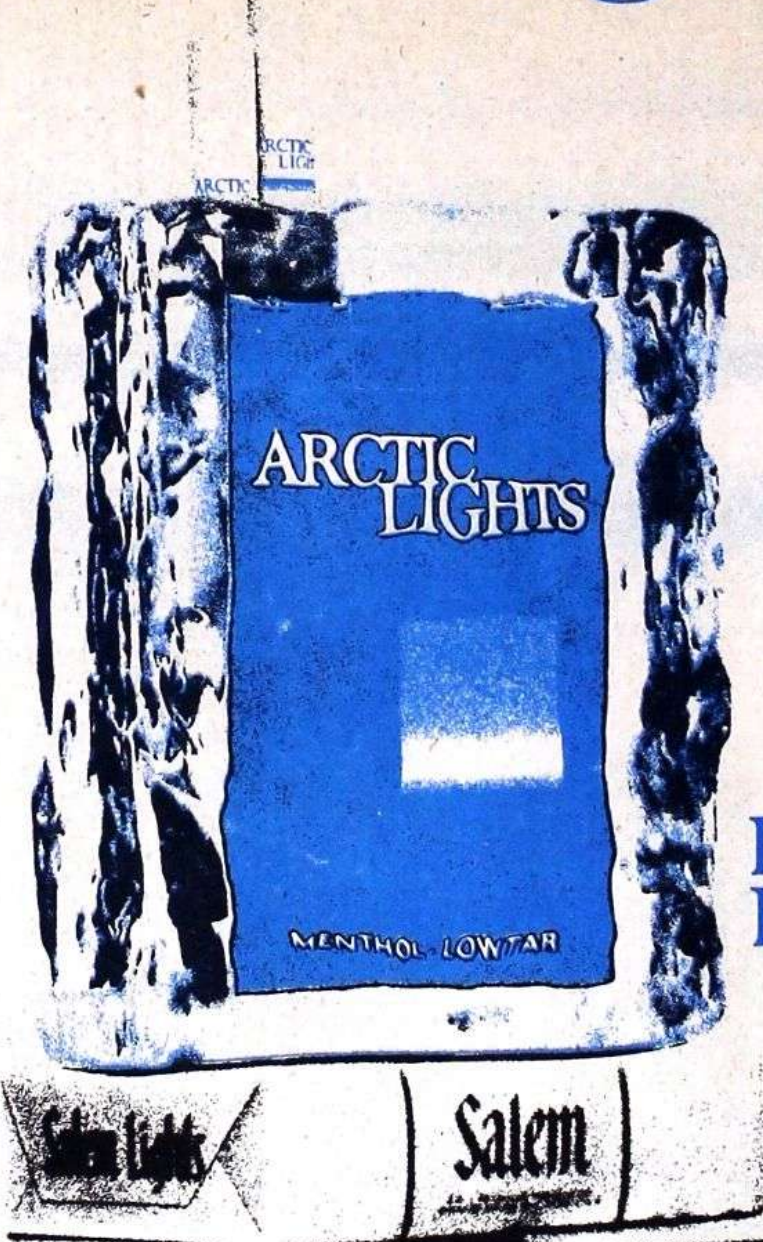

Barber led the Zebra's attack with five baskets and 3-of-4 from the line for 13 points and 5-9 guard Bob Kost added 11.

Taylor Center also placed two scorers in double figures, paced by Jeff Sarandrea's 14 and Barry Griesinger's 13.

After last week's action, Monroe led the Great Lakes 8 race with 3-0, followed closely by Wayne, Taylor Center, and Fordson with 2-1 marks. Wyandotte, Lincoln Park and Taylor Truman carried 1-2 slates and hapless Riverview was 0-3.

Cherry Hill evens cage record

Spartans bounce back to beat Southgate

Cherry Hill outbounded, out-shot, and outscored Southgate 76-69 to chalk up its first Tri-River Conference basketball victory and boost their over-all record to 2-1 on the year.

"We did a super job blocking out a taller Southgate team from the boards," said Dave Bogataj who was presented his first league win as the Spartans head coach. "It was the type of game you like to see your kids play."

The Spartans will return to the hardwood tonight (Dec. 27) in the first of two games scheduled at Westland John Glenn. Glenn is host for the Western Wayne Holiday Tournament (See related story on Page 1 of Sports Section) which will bring together teams from Belleville, Wayne, Cherry Hill and Glenn.

Coach Bogataj shuffled his line-up for Southgate after the Spartans dropped their league opener to Dearborn Heights Crestwood. He inserted Andy Simmons, younger brother of ex-All-Stater, Floyd Simmons, into the first five, and Andy responded with a team high 23 points. He pumped in 11 of his 18 attempted shots from the field.

Close the first period when Cherry Hill gained a slim 16-15 edge, the Spartans broke it open in the second period when senior guard Greg Thompson got into the scoring act and tossed in eight of his 19 points, picked up four assists to pave the way for a 36-25 Spartan lead.

Although the Sabres made a run at the defending champs in the second half, the Spartans stayed comfortably ahead by 10 the rest of the way. One of Cherry Hill's problems was stopping 6-5, 195-pound senior Jeff Jaciuk who fired in 12 field goals and made all three of his free throws for a game high 27 points. The Sabers also received 18 points from Dean Burnett.

The Spartans received balanced scoring from their starters. Joining Simmons and Thompson in double figures were Gary Williams who helped out with 18 points and 12 rebounds, while center Aaron Gregory chipped in with 10.

Cherry Hill shot nearly 40 percent from the floor, hitting 29 of 72. They made 16 of 20 free throws.

Belleville will be the Spartans' first holiday tournament opponent (scheduled for 7 p.m.) and the winner will take on the survivor of the Wayne Memorial and Glenn game, scheduled for 8 p.m. The championship at Glenn will be decided Friday night at 8 p.m.

distinguished team. Ironically, if no player from the Pistons is voted for on the All-Star ballot, Long may become an All-Star. The Pistons players would get to select their representative, and at this stage of the game Johnny Long would probably get the nod because of his outstanding performances.

And, indeed, the lanky cager from Romulus deserves that honor.

'Mooning'

Taylor Center's wrestling team showed up less one wrestler the other day. Correct that — night.

And the Rams' lost that grappler to the light of the moon, they say.

The story goes that the wrestler decided to do a bit of "mooning," that modern fad of "derriering," on the bus to Wayne. Unfortunately for the "mooning" athlete, the vehicle behind him was one occupied by two members of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

The officers stopped the bus, walked into the vehicle and pointed to the young athlete. "You," said the officer, "come with us." Wonder how the officer was able to identify the culprit?

Bulldogs erase SAC threat

Defening champ Robichaud cleared one of its major obstacles to the Suburban Athletic Conference swim title by dunking River Rouge 93-79 last week.

"We figured that Rouge had a good shot at us," said Robichaud coach Jim Hadley, "so this victory has put us in the driver's seat."

That's where Robichaud has been for the last five SAC seasons. They're seeking an unprecedented sixth consecutive title.

Robichaud received a double win from Doug Kubitz who was first in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events. Dave Donnelly stashed the 100-yard butterfly into the Bulldog column and he was out-touched in the 200-yard individual medley, while Mark McCall turned in the winning performance for the 200-yard freestyle.

Hadley's freestyle relay team of McCall, Robert Polley, Kubitz and Jim Godfrey breezed to victory.

Earlier in the week the Bulldogs lost a controversial 44-38 decision to Willow Run. McCall easily won the 500 freestyle but was disqualified, according to Hadley, "because he vigorously splashed the water."

"We are obviously going to protest this one," Hadley said.

Ex-Glenn griddier stars for Brown U.

TIM RUARK

Tim Ruark, a former three-sports standout at Westland John Glenn, was cited for his outstanding performance on the 1979 Brown University freshman football team by frosh coach Ed Walsh. (Freshmen are not allowed to compete on the varsity level in the Ivy League.)

The 5-10, 176-pound Ruark, who earned letters in football, basketball and track while at the Westland-based high school, starred at tailback for the Bruin Cubs.

Ruark led all frosh runners with 339 yards.

Season's highlights included wins over junior varsity teams from University of Massachusetts and Boston University for the spirited squad of 48 who had to learn the Brown system, and help ready the varsity for each week's opponents.

Head coach John Anderson commented on Tim's performance, saying, "that Ruark is an outstanding runner and an exceptional blocker. He is going to help us — we'll watch his pre-season work very closely next fall."

Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ruark of 6416 Inkster Rd., in Romulus.

Umpiring clinic dates set

Though there's snow on the ground and frost on the window sills, one local little league organization is already thinking baseball.

The Van Buren Little League will hold an Umpires and Coaches' Clinic between 10 a.m. and noon, Saturday, Jan. 12 at the Van Buren Township Hall. The session will be Thurs., Jan. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. Potential officials must attend at least one of these sessions.

"We had problems a year ago because of the lack of qualified umpires," said George Roberts, executive vice president of the Little League. "We were so short on umps that sometimes we had to drag people out of the stands to fill in behind the plate.

"That's one of the reasons why we are organizing this clinic," Roberts continued. "We dress approximately 800 kids who play little league, Babe Ruth ball, and we feel that they should get adequate officiating and coaching."

The only cost to the participant will be $1 which will go toward purchasing a rules' book.

For further information please contact George Brown, president of Van Buren Little League (697-4870), Uenice Kause, secretary (697-0625) and Roberts at 697-1641.

Reb gymnasts fare well

Romulus' Natalie Zabik, representing the Rebel Gymnastics Club, proved she's one of the top young gymnasts in the area by winning the USGH (United States Gymnastics Federation) Class III & championships recently staged in Lansing.

Miss Zabik earned a first place in vault, uneven bars and for her floor routine, then placed second on the beam and finished off the afternoon's competition with top over-all honors.

Meanwhile teammate Jeanine Levy of Garden City competed in a Class II B meet for ages 10-11 in Freeland where she was second in vault and third in uneven bars.

Gayle Quashnie of Westland also traveled to Freeland and vied in the division for 12 to 14 year olds. She returned with a second in vault and a gold medal for her floor routine.

The girls are coached by Rose Wilkerwicz.

Engagements told

LAW-SHARPE

The engagement of their daughter, Mary Law, to Rick Sharpe is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Law of 40452 Robbe Rd., Belleville. The young couple, both 1977 graduates of Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, plan to be married on June 14.

The bride-elect, who earned a bachelor of arts degree, is a 1973 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School currently employed at Arlington Aluminum in Detroit.

Her fiancé, who resides at 304 Lake St., Northville, is the son of Richard Sharpe of Birmingham and Mrs. Carolyn Sharpe of Knoxville, Tenn. A 1973 alumnus of Cheyenne Mountain High School in Colorado Springs, Colo., he holds a bachelor of science degree from WMU, and at the present time is working for Barnett Pontiac-Datsun in Dearborn.

GLINSKI-GOOD

The First Congregational Church in Wayne has been reserved for the May altar date of Bonnie Jean Glinski of Romulus and Douglas A. Good of Belleville.

Announcement of the young couple's engagement and wedding plans comes from Mrs. Kathryn Glinski of 6110 Cogswell Rd., Romulus, mother of the bride-elect.

A graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, Miss Glinski attended Michigan State University for two years and is presently enrolled at Eastern Michigan University. She is a member of the Kalisz Polish Cultural Song and Dance Ensemble of Belleville.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Miriam Good of 48610 W. Huron River Dr., Belleville, is a graduate of Belleville High School who spent two years with the U.S. Army serving as a military policeman in Germany. A member of Wayne Moose Lodge 835 and Fraternal Order of Eagles Lodge 1314 of Sturgis, he is an employee of the Belleville A & P Food Store.

'Kitchen Belles' present several holiday programs

The locally famous "Kitchen Belles Band," comprised of women from the Senior Citizens Clubs in the area, has been on-the-go constantly during the pre-holiday weeks.

They were at the Gilbert Residence in Ypsilanti twice to present their Christmas program, the result of their performance being a special poem written by Miss Ellen Gould, a former Belleville Schools principal, who now makes her home there.

The Belleville Kitchen Belles were dressed for their parade. They stepped so gay and sprightly, They really had it made!

Instruments were tin covers, some tin cans, too, were there — egg beaters came in handy, and sound of funnels filled the air.

I loved the leader, I loved the reader, the snowman was really great, The pianist kept things lively, so the old Band "took the cake."

Other places the group has visited include the Van Buren Convalescent Home, the Venoy Convalescent Home, the Apple Tree Home and Evergreen Home and the Grace Baptist Church for a senior citizens dinner. On the evening of Dec. 21 they also played at McDonald's on Rawsonville Road.

Members of the organization under the direction of Myrtle Wells, are Velma Kulzer, narrator; Betty Hunter, pianist; Juanita Akers and Myrtle Gasilo who alternate playing the snowman; Marie Ocholik who's Mrs. Santa Claus; and bandsmen Marjorie Campbell, Emma Sala, Esther Burlingame, Betty Strauss, Myrtle Goble, Leona Agge, Alice Hightower, Margaret Saunders and Marjorie Potter.

Baked Chicken Kabobs

Chicken Kabobs

3 whole chicken breasts, split, skinned and boned (about 2 lb.)
2 medium green peppers, cut into 1-inch pieces
16 large mushrooms, halved
1 cup prepared Italian salad dressing
1 packet coating for chicken, crispy crumb recipe
1/4 cup oil or melted shortening

Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces. Place chicken, green peppers and mushrooms in a bowl. Stir in dressing and let stand about 1 hour. Then drain well, discarding marinade.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Empty packet of coating onto a sheet of waxed paper or into a shallow bowl. Spread oil in a 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan. (A flat-bottom pan with sides not more than 1 inch deep gives best results.) Place chicken pieces in coating, a few pieces at a time. Pile coating on chicken, then press firmly on all sides until thickly and evenly covered. Divide among four skewers, about 12 inches long, leaving 1/4 inch between the pieces. Place skewered chicken in pan. Fry in oven 30 minutes, then turn and fry 15 to 20 minutes longer, until chicken is tender. Meanwhile, divide peppers and mushrooms among 4 skewers, about 8 inches long. Add to pan after turning chicken. Remove from pan immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Always time to wish old friends the very best.

New arrivals for Christmas

An early Christmas package in the form of a baby son arrived Dec. 8 for Glen and Jeannie Hood of 38055 Westvale, Romulus. The 8 lb.-2 oz. heir put in this appearance at 10:40 a.m. at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and was titled "Christopher Glen."

The couple's first child, he is the maternal grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pike of Pinckney and Mr. and Mrs. James Rutledge of Riverview and the paternal grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Hood of Ypsilanti. The proud great-grandmother is Mrs. Emma Funk.

The new mother is the former Jeannie Rutledge.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Lockwood of 17546 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, are proud to announce the arrival of a new grandson on Dec. 17. Born to their daughter and son-in-law, Rose and Harry Woods of Aurora, Colo., the infant arrived at 2:30 a.m. at Aurora Osteopathic Hospital, and at the time of this new item, was as yet unnamed.

The young man, who weighed in at the exact weight as his mother — 7 lbs.-1/2 oz. — is the new brother of 4-year-old Matthew David.

The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Trudy Lockwood, spent from Dec. 12 to 31 in Colorado helping care for the family.

And Court of Awards

Shar Tator hostess at Home Arts party

The traditional holiday party for members of the Home Arts Club of Belleville was held in the festively decorated home of Sharlene Tator on High Street with 16 present for the celebration.

Program chairman Charlotte Budd introduced Mrs. Kathy Thieme, music teacher at North Junior High School, who in turn presented members of her Concert Choir Group. They opened their program with "Carol of the Bells" and "Do You Hear What I Hear?"

Soloist Terri Sierota sang "The Morning After" with members of The Beauty Shop Quartet, Ann Oliver, Becky Shem, Kathy Zayer and Lori Holton, presenting a humorous "Twelve Days After Christmas."

"Winter Wonderland" was then sung by the Norsemen Dancers; "O

Holy Night" by soloist Jeanette Holton and "Jingle Bell Rock" and "Our Christmas Card to You" by the whole ensemble. Mrs. Thieme then invited the members to join in singing favorite Christmas carols. The entertainers were served punch and cookies before their departure.

Mrs. Budd later directed several holiday-theme games with prizes for the winners. The group then held its annual exchange of handmade and homemade gifts which ranged from delicious baked goodies to clever hand-sewn and hand-crafted articles.

The executive board, Marilyn Prill, Frances Jobe, Phyllis Breinhaupt, Rhoda Chapo and Muriel Wolfe, brought the evening to a finale with a lunch of Quiche Lorraine, assorted salads and desserts.

Pam Lambert wins cruise to Caribbean

Pamela Lambert of 17 S. Liberty, Belleville, recently returned from a 4-day Caribbean cruise. She and Graig Lambert left from Miami for the trip, which included a 2-day stopover in Nassau.

The cruise was part of a competition sponsored by Rubbermaid Party Plan, which Pamela won by meeting qualifications for both sales and recruiting, during a 4-month period. She was one of 195 Rubbermaid dealers from across the nation who made the trip.

Rice needs no passport

For round-the-world dining pleasure, Birds Eye has introduced a line of four exciting International Rice Recipes designed to enhance everyday meals as well as company dining. Each variety combines long grain parboiled rice with compatible vegetables and vegetable garnishes in a delicately seasoned sauce that's ready to eat just ten minutes after it comes from the freezer.

Oriental Style Rice is made with long grain rice, spinach, water chestnuts, red pepper strips and diced onions in a mildly seasoned soy sauce and goes particularly well with beef, pork, chicken or fish.

French Style Rice is a combination of long grain rice, French style green beans, diced onions, wild rice and mushrooms in a light seasoned sauce. It's the ideal complement for chicken, pork or fish.

Spanish Style Rice, made with long grain rice, diced onions, peas, green pepper strips and sweet red peppers in a mildly seasoned sauce, will perk up any meal — chicken, ground beef, fish or frankfurters.

Italian Style Rice combines long grain rice, Italian green beans, ripe olives and sweet red peppers in a lightly seasoned garlic sauce to serve with veal cutlets, chicken, beef or sausage.

There's a touch of glamour to a foreign accent and any of these International Rice Recipes acts as a passport to exciting, tasty and convenient meals. An 11-ounce package makes about 3 servings.

Quotes worth quoting...

"When you see a snake, never mind where he came from."

W. G. Benham said it.

It's soup weather!

Here's a few soups that might make a permanent spot on your winter menu planner. Easy to prepare, they have appetite appeal and one is even this year's annual beef cook-off winner.

Let's start with that recipe, a creation of Valeria Denghel of Birmingham.

Bean-Beef Soup

2 lbs. boneless beef chuck, cut into small pieces
2 large onions, chopped
Boiling water
4 tbsp. shortening
2 tbsp. flour
2 lbs. green beans
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup tomato catsup or tomato sauce
2 tbsp. minced parsley
2 tbsp. minced dill

In a saucepan, brown beef and onions in melted shortening. Season with salt, pepper; sprinkle with flour. Add cut green beans and enough boiling water to just cover. (After meat is tender, add boiling water and simmer. Add enough water to cover the addition of the rest of the ingredients. Cover and simmer slowly until hot.) Add catsup, parsley and dill. Cover and simmer slowly until meat is tender.

When fresh green beans, parsley and dill are unavailable, use 2 cans of green beans, 1 tablespoon dry parsley, 1 tablespoon dry dill, and only 1 teaspoon salt.

The next recipe captures the aromatic flavor of Hungary in a Brandy Beef Gulyas. It's warm and filling and definitely up to the appetite of a serious eater.

Vegetable Cheese Soup

1 10-ounce package mixed vegetables, frozen in butter sauce
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 10 1/2-ounce can chicken broth (or 2 cups)
1 8-ounce jar processed cheese spread
1 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard

Cook vegetables according to package directions. Meanwhile saute onion in butter in a medium saucepan. Blend in flour, salt, and pepper. Stir in milk gradually. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Reduce heat. Add remaining ingredients; heat thoroughly. Makes 5 cups.

A perfect beginning for a meal or a meal in itself is flavorful Swiss Cheese Soup. As the name implies, natural Wisconsin Swiss cheese is the mainstay of the thick rich soup, which also takes advantage of both the convenience and flavor of dehydrated onion soup mix.

Serve this delightful concoction while piping hot, advises the Borden Kitchen. If allowed to cool too much, and the cheese becomes stringy, just stir and gently reheat.

Swiss Cheese Soup

2 tablespoons margarine OR butter
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 cups boiling water
1 (1 1/4-oz.) package dehydrated onion soup
2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups (one 6-oz. package) shredded Borden Natural Wisconsin Swiss Cheese

Parsley
In medium-size saucepan, melt margarine or butter. Stir in flour; cook over low heat until mixture bubbles and color starts to turn golden. Remove from heat. Pour in boiling water. Sprinkle onion soup mix on top; return to heat and cook for 15 minutes. Add milk and cheese. Heat just until cheese starts to melt. If desired, garnish with parsley. Serve piping hot. Makes 5 cups.

Choose a retirement plan that's tax-sheltered

You can begin today to provide for a tax shelter of current income with either an Individual Retirement Custodial Account (IRA) or a Keogh Account at Security Bank and Trust.

IRA ACCOUNT Established for wage earners who are not covered by any other tax qualified retirement plan, an IRA allows an individual to supply up to $1,500 or 15% of his annual earned income (whichever is less). A maximum of $1,750 is permitted if contributions are evenly split between separate accounts for the wage earner and a non-working spouse. Contributions made to the individual's IRA and Spouse's IRA are tax deductible and all earnings (interest earned and compounded) on these accounts are tax-sheltered until retirement.

KEOGH ACCOUNT The Keogh Plan is designed to offer a tax shelter for the self-employed individual's income. With this plan, the individual has annual tax deductible defined contributions of up to 15% of earned income with a maximum of $7,500. If the self-employed individual has eligible employees, they must be included in the Keogh Plan.

Each of these plans permits contributions which are tax deductible and interest earned on contributions are tax-deferred — offering you a tax shelter until retirement, when your tax rate should be lower.

with Security's IRA or Keogh accounts.

These retirement plans earn 8% interest, paid and compounded quarterly, yielding 8.24% annually. Minimum deposit is $25 and you can make additions of $25 or more any time. Deposits earn from the day of deposit but all deposits made in same calendar year have same maturity date — three years from December 31 of year in which the deposits are made.

Withdrawal without penalty may be made between age 59½ and 70½ or in the case of death or permanent disability. Otherwise Federal law and regulation requires a substantial loss-of-interest penalty for early withdrawal. There is also a substantial IRS penalty for early withdrawal.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Another Christmas will have come and gone by the time this column sees ink and in just a few days we'll be ushering in another new decade — the 80's. Whew!

Never having been one for making resolutions because the calendar has to be replaced, I did give some serious thought as to what might be on that list were I not such a procrastinator. Having a 45-minute drive to and from work each Thursday gives me lots of time for mental "potpourri's" which help clean out the cobwebs and keep me awake.

Were I not a putter-offer, I would have hundreds of tulip bulbs neatly ensconced in the ground and ready for their glorious debut come sunny spring months. Had I heeded the seed catalogs when they warned "Now is the time to get bulbs into the ground . . . before the first hard freeze", I'd have had a miniature tulip festival to look forward to come April.

Were I not a "one-of-these-days" character, there would be a new dining room set gracing that particular section of the house. Not that I didn't hunt (AND hunt) for one all last summer and into autumn — but I DID pass up one mighty good sale which just might have resulted in a face-lift for the eating area.

Were I not so indecisive, there would be no blank walls in the living room. By now that huge creamy wasteland above the couch would have something above it other than the two nails left by the previous tenants. And Carol would be most happy to come home and eventually find the walls in HER room broken up by arrangements of some sort (right, CAS?)

The G-flat on the electric organ, were it the property of someone a bit more aggressive, would not be sounding just a trifle sour as we plug away at the Christmas carols. It, along with a couple loose keys, would have been repaired as soon as that first off-key note was sounded.

If wanting "something different" were not part of my nature, there would be a much-needed light fixture above the main entrance door. And each time BG or I have to fumble with the keys in that little niche, I know what he's thinking (cuz I know what I'm thinking.) And, occasionally, I get told that IF I ever picked out the thing, he'd be more than happy to put it up.

But to that I say, HA!

Were we BOTH not born under the same Zodiac sign — Gemini (known for its procrastinators) — there would be cornice boards hovering over two picture windows; ceiling beams up in the family room; screen enclosing the back porch; grass seed lying dormant and waiting to fill certain sparse spots on the lawn come springtime; and a family room minus a rather bothersome and unnecessary chandelier which we've all had the misfortune to forget and encounter at one time or another.

BUT — to our credit (or rather BG's) we DO have that new set of glass doors on the fireplace and a new heating device for a grate (guess you know who really enjoys a blazing fire on cold winter nights.)

We DO have a new mantle adding a decorative touch to an otherwise plain brick fireplace wall AND it was assembled in time for stocking-hanging-time to boot!

We DO have plenty of firewood (again thanks to BG being less prone to the postponement bit) and — thanks to the previous owner-builder of our house, there's not a drafty spot around any of the 13 windows or three outer doors. We thank him constantly for believing so strongly in lots of insulation.

From what's been written thus far, you'll begin to believe that I don't have a single bit of decisiveness in my body. Well, let me tell ya . . . there's never an unmade bed in my house, never dishes standing around and I never fail to brush my teeth. . .

PLUS — I had my Christmas shopping finished by Dec. 1, wrapped by Dec. 15, cards and holiday letters out by that same date and 36 dozen cookies, three pans of bar cookies and nine brown nut breads neatly Tupper-ware'd in the freezer.

Procrastinators aren't all bad!

IF YOU WERE among the many who bought, borrowed or checked out Ken Follett's "Eye of the Needle" and then read the entire intriguing novel in about two evenings, you'll need no urging to get to his newest work. "Triple", which (if I'm not struck by another lethargic evening as happened last night), will be finished before this goes to press.

Israeli intelligence in 1968 learns too late that Egypt, with Soviet help, will develop atomic bombs within months. That discovery could sound the death knell for the young nation unless a source of uranium for Israeli bombs can be acquired in such complete secrecy that not even Israel's allies will have time to interfere.

Improbable as the plan seems, one ingenious Israeli agent, Nat Dickstein, is called upon to devise the challenging scheme for the biggest, quietest and most unbelievable hijacking in history. The Russian KGB, Egyptian intelligence and an extremist Arab element are against him as is Dickstein's half-Arab lover, a woman of uncertain allegiance.

A thriller-love story, Triple is another "must" for readers who lean toward foreign intrigue.

In columns past we've discussed how different aromas and fragrances bring to mind certain people, times or places. The same thing, I find, applies to food.

Just today, as I opened a can of salmon, it made me realize that everytime I do so, I think of my very best friend, Ann, from early school days at St. John's in Ypsi. Whenever Ann's mom used canned salmon, she always picked out and saved the bones for her daughter (something Ann considered a real treat.)

Fried egg sandwiches are something I rarely make but when the urge strikes it always brings to mind my college roommate, Nickie. She urged me to try one on a rare occasion when we "dined" at Sup's (pronounced Soop's) — or more formally, Superior Dairy, an at-the-time college hangout.

No matter when Hershey syrup is used at our house, I think of my Aunt Frances. It was while overnighting with my cousin, Anita, that I was first given the delicious drink of ice cold milk well laced with Hershey syrup.

Hot buttered popcorn on cold winter nights before a roaring fire recalls the first Sunday evening spent with the Jarvises — our good customers and friends — who also introduced our family to its first corn roast and first evening ice skating party.

Chicken pot pie — the real thing, right down to homemade wide noodles — brings to mind my mother's very best friend, Josephine. Jo never showed up at our house without something in hand, the alternatives being a double chocolate layer cake or huge bowl of custard. It was she, though, who brought pot pie into our lives and caused us to compare every version with hers from there on in.

And it's my dear dad I think about everytime I order pancakes — or "wheatcakes" as he always referred to them. 'Twas on a trip to Florida that he and I became bosom pancake buddies and I picked up his method of cutting the stacks — in triangular wedges — after they've been drenched with butter and warm maple (NEVER Karo) syrup.

And to this day, no one but NO one, can make up a batch of little dumplings (kluski as we called them) the way my dear mother could. She always had a pan of diced, fried bacon waiting for the undrained goodies which were stirred, along with some black pepper, until, VOILA! It was only years later that I also learned to top those heavy, calorie-loaded, almost indigestible lovelies with still more poundage — sour cream. And try as I may, MINE never, never taste as good as hers did.

TO OUR 'FIRST LADY' at Associated Newspapers — Donna Willett — the entire crew who make "potpourri" possible each week sends its most sincere wishes for a complete and rapid recovery. We all were keeping our fingers crossed that you'd be able to fight that devil pneumonia and make it home in time for Christmas.

THE BOTTOM LINE: May the new year and debut of a new decade make us all kinder and more aware of each others' needs. And may we all have our prayers for world peace and harmony answered.

The Garden Corner answers questions

December is not a peak time for gardening questions, but a few do trickle in. Michigan State University Extension specialists answer some timely queries.

Q. Will it hurt my houseplants if I turn my thermostat down to 55-60 degrees when I'm at work during the day and during the night while I'm sleeping?

A. Cool temperatures may slow the growth of some plants, but turning back the heat shouldn't hurt them unless the temperature drops suddenly and falls below 50 degrees. Then some plants may be chilled and injured. Many plants, especially some ferns, will probably grow better under cool temperatures.

Q. Some of the leaves on my zebra plant have turned black in places. Does the plant have some disease?

A. If the plant is sitting close to a window, suspect chilling injury. Foliage that touches cold window glass is very likely to be killed. Plants that need high light levels should be given artificial light during the winter rather than being set in a cold window.

Q. Am I imagining things, or are there bugs crawling out of my Christmas tree?

A. There very well could be insects in your tree. After all, it was grown outdoors, where insects of various sorts were bound to get into it. When you brought the tree inside, the insects warmed up and became active. Chances are the most insects that came in with the tree will probably leave with it. Any that do remain behind will not infest houseplants or cause any damage in the home.

Q. My neighbor makes pine cone and nut Christmas decorations. He always bakes his raw materials before he uses them. Surely they wouldn't spoil, but what other reason could there be for cooking them?

A. The aim is to kill the insect larvae, spiders and other creatures that might crawl out of the cones and nuts at some later date. An hour in the oven at its lowest setting will take care of worms, beetles, borers or other pests that might emerge into your home as the materials got warm.

Q. Are the peppers on my Christmas pepper edible?

A. The fruits of the Christmas pepper are edible but very, very hot. To try them for yourself, grow some plants from seed. Greenhouse-grown plants may contain systemic insecticides, which can be very toxic.

Q. Can I put the ashes from my wood stove on my garden site?

A. The nutritional value of wood ashes is quite low. Putting them on the garden will add only small amounts of potassium and even smaller amounts of phosphorus. A potential problem is that wood ashes are 20-50 percent lime. This is fine if your soil needs liming, but not so good if it's already neutral or slightly alkaline.

Fortunately, it would take considerable quantities of wood ashes to make the soil too alkaline for crop production. Small amounts would have little effect. If you're applying large quantities, a soil test every other year to monitor soil pH would be a good idea.

Q. Why does the mistletoe sold in the stores at Christmas have plastic berries on it? Doesn't mistletoe have real berries?

A. Yes, but they're poisonous and pose a threat to children or pets that might eat them. The plastic ones are obviously artificial but safer to have around the house.

Campgrounds lure winter 'biz'

Operators of Michigan's private campgrounds open this winter will use the lures of new outdoor features and events to help recoup an average 2 percent business drop last winter, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Last fall, most campground owners predicted a 10th consecutive season of record business, but inflation, spiraling gasoline prices and poor holiday snow conditions in many areas held bookings down," explained Auto Club touring manager Joseph Ratke.

Those factors also could be the major reasons why 97 private parks are operating this winter, compared with 109 last year.

Camp operators are going all out this season to help coax back their most important cash customers—snowmobilers and cross-country and downhill skiers—who last season made up between 50 and 90 percent of the business at nearly half the campgrounds responding to an Auto Club survey.

Of the campgrounds listed on Auto Club's 1979-80 guide, 66 feature adjacent snowmobile trails and 49 have cross-country ski trails either adjoining or on the premises, both double last year's figures.

"First-time cross-country skiers can rent equipment at 10 parks this season compared with five last winter, while four campgrounds will rent snowmobiles, also double last year's total," Ratke noted.

Several parks are offering special weekend activities.

Guides will lead snowmobilers on snow-dusted state and national forest trails from campgrounds in Cadillac and Bessemer, while parks near White Cloud and Traverse City will sponsor cross-country ski races and guided ski tours. Skiers staying at one campground near Gaylord can try out either in-park downhill runs or cross-country trails.

"One park owner near St. Clair in southeast Michigan is even throwing a campers' New Year's Eve party," Ratke said. "Another park near Pickford offers its campers a $100 prize for the largest walleye caught through the ice of Munuscong Bay."

Campers will find the average nightly fee unchanged from last winter at $5.40 for sites with electricity, which are available at 94 campgrounds on Auto Club's guide. Rates range from $2 to $13.

Heated shower buildings are open at 78 parks while 39 offer laundry facilities and keep in-park stores open year-round. There are 24 parks with at-site sewage hook-ups and 48 with disposal stations.

In addition to private parks, 68 state parks are open for winter camping. Electricity is available but shower buildings are closed at all state parks and water is available only from central hand pumps at most. Campers should call ahead at many parks to guarantee access to sites.

"Ehh, What's up Doc?" asks Bugs Bunny in his favorite pose in the all-new, live 2-hour stage show BUGS BUNNY MEETS THE SUPER HEROES with special guest stars Wonder Woman, Batman and Robin. Bugs will be at Cobo Arena through Sunday. For ticket information call 962-1800.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Soapsters reunite to do little night work

NANCY M. REICHARDT
NEW YORK — Douglass Watson (Mac Cory on "Another World") is one soap actor who is never at a loss for theater work. Currently he's appearing as Claudius in the Circle Rep production of "Hamlet." Co-starring with Doug in the New York show is Emmy winner Beatrice Straight, who once appeared on "Love of Life" with Doug. They portrayed a married couple on that soap 10 years ago.

Nancy Pinkerton (ex-Dorian Lord on "One Life to Live"), who is back in the soap scene as Vivica Strand on "The Doctors," was recently wed to her long-time beau, Gil Peabody, at a private ceremony in New York City.

During the month of January, "Dinah and Friends" will present a tribute to The Men's Fashion Association. Included in the show as models will be Peter Simon (Ian McFarland on "ATWT"), Chris Bernau (Alan Spaulding on "GL"), John Aniston (Martin Tourneur on "SFT") and Lloyd Batista (Ray Slater on "LOL"). Check for the airdate and time in your area.

Stan Birnbaum (Adam Cohen on "Ryan's Hope") has been doing double acting duty for some time now. By night, Stan appears in "Grease," the longest-running Broadway musical in history, which recently held an alumni party for the "old" stars who got their start in the show. Included were John Travolta, Richard Gere, Adrianna Barbour and daytime's Candice Earley (Donna Tyler on "All My Children").

Cindy Pickett will soon be flying to London for the January premiere of her new film, "Night Games." The flick is slated for a February release in the United States. Don't be surprised if Cindy decides to depart her Jackie Spaulding role on "Guiding Light."

When Eileen Barnett (Stephanie Woodruff) and

Richard Guthrie (David Banning) of "Days of Our Lives" tried to attend a musical revue at California's Knott's Berry Farm's Good Time Theater, which featured fellow castmates Bill and Susan Hayes (Doug and Julie Williams), they were mobbed by a group of over-zealous fans. Eileen and Richard never got to see the show, however, since they had to be escorted from the theater by a regiment of security guards.

Chinese acrobats and magicians perform at Music Hall Jan. 4-6

Detroit audiences will flip when they see the Chinese Acrobats & Magicians of Taiwan at Music Hall Center, January 4-6.

This year the Chinese Acrobats' tour features many new acts never before seen in this country. Also, for the first time, Taiwan's master magicians have joined the troupe performing incredible illusions from the mysterious East.

From building human pyramids to leaping through flaming rings, the Chinese

Acrobats present fabulous tumbling, juggling, and balancing acts as well as the ancient art of kung-fu. According to the New York Times, these young experts "are thrilling, highly trained performers whose feats evoke everything from gossamer grace to spine-tingling tension."

Far more than merely a series of stunts, Chinese acrobatics is an integral part of the Chinese culture. It is based on the ancient desire for man to find the perfect harmony between mind and body, thus achieving perfection. This artistic heritage dates from before the Han Dynasty (206 BC to 220 AD) and has traditionally been passed from generation to generation.

The master Magicians of Taiwan are making their North American debut with this tour. They will perform several feats of magic and illusion from the Music Hall stage including the famous Grand Illusion and the mystifying Invisible Beauty (a girl climbs a rope in full view of the audience, then suddenly disappears).

The Chinese Acrobats & magicians of Taiwan are "a full evening's worth of physical and mental miracles" (Houston Chronicle). Evening performances at the Music Hall are at 8:00 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. Matinees are at 2:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Tickets range from $4.50 to $12.50 with discounts for children, 12 and under, and can be purchased at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison, Detroit, or by calling 963-7680, Monday through Saturday, 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. For group rates, call Joan Heidt at 963-7622.

Detroit Boat Show set

Looking for something different to do in 1980? Consider the Greater Michigan Boat and Fishing Show, one of the largest public boating exhibitions of its type in the country, will be held Feb. 2-10 at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

As estimated 100,000 people are expected to tour the show.

More than 750 boats of all types, extensive displays of fishing gear, electronic equipment and a wide variety of recreational boating supplies will be shown. Everything on display in the 350,000 square foot hall will be for sale.

Admission to the show is $3 for adults and $1.50 for senior citizens and children 6 through 12 years. Children 5 and under will be admitted free of charge.

Show hours are 12 noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays, 12 noon to 9 p.m. Sundays and 4 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Attic stages 'Dream'

The Attic Theatre has opened the second production of its 1979-80 season, Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream.'

The show will run through Jan. 19, with performances Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 6 and 9 p.m. Ticket prices are $6 Friday and Saturday and $5 ($4 students and seniors) on Thursday and Sunday. Reservations are recommended for all performances. Call 963-7789, or visit the box office at 525 E. Lafayette, 2-8 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

This production will be a rather unusual presentation of the classic comedy that pits the forces of law and government against the mythological beast and fairies that were believed by the people of Shakespeare's day to rule nature. By creating a world of modern mythology, using Caribbean steel drum rhythms, African chants, Oriental martial arts and tribal dances, the Attic production breathes new life into Shakespeare's work.

Robert Wright, as a hypnotic Oberon-Theseus, returns to the Attic Theatre after his critically acclaimed performance in 'Streamers.' Also featured will be members of the Attic Company — artistic director Lavinia Moyer as Titania-Hippolyta, Herbert Ferrer as Bottom, Margaret Heinze as Hermia and Glen Allen Pruett as Demetrius.

Ron Martell, who currently is appearing in the Attic production of Sam Shepard's 'Buried Child,' is the director. Martell has been seen at the Attic as Jesse James in 'Jesse and the Bandit Queen,' and also staged Attic Company productions of 'Streamers' and 'The Emperor of the Moon.'

Following its run at the Attic, 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' will tour to area high schools. For information concerning booking the show, contact Ginny Lark at 963-7789, or write Tour Manager, Attic Theatre, P.O. Box 1357, Detroit 48231.

Exobiology, anyone?

Life on other planets and scientific art dating from 15th century exploration will be topics of new classes for adults this winter at Cranbrook Institute of Science.

"Exobiology," a five-week course that examines extraterrestrial life from an astronomical perspective, will begin January 10.

An artistic view of the New World before photography can be seen in "From Raleigh to Darwin: The Artist's Role" beginning January 15 for four weeks.

Other adult classes to be held in January, February and March include "Seasonal Skies," "Terrariums and Indoor Light Gardens," "Nature Photography: Advanced Still-life Techniques,"

"Introduction to Anthropology," "Indian Cultures of the Great Lakes" and "Identification of Minerals."

Also scheduled are "Introduction to Beekeeping," "Basic Astronomy," "Introductory Lapidary" and "Faceting and Advanced Lapidary."

Most classes are conducted weekday evenings. Fees range from $14 to $100. For information, call 645-3230.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is the Detroit area's natural history museum, open daily except major holidays. It is a division of Cranbrook Educational Community, which also includes Cranbrook Academy of Art and Museum and Cranbrook Schools.

Silverdome host camper show

The "Boat-Camper-Sportsman's Show '80", Michigan's first sportsman's show of the new year, will swing open its doors at the Pontiac Silverdome Thursday, January 3rd, through Sunday, January 6th, 1980.

Headlining the Stage Show will be Bobby Riggs, Tennis Hustler Supreme, plus the return of Killer Willard the Boxing Kangaroo. Also making their appearance will be two world champion anglers, Bass fisherman Bobby Murray and casting champion Bruce Brubaker, Sharpshooter and casting champ Bob Collins is also slated to make an appearance, as is casting pro Don Rank.

The show will have something for the entire family:

- the latest in power and sail boats,
- the newest model campers and recreational vehicles.

— for the first time, a gigantic gun and knife display featuring new and antique guns. Dealers from around the country and several custom makers of guns, rifles and knives will be on hand.

— a variety of hunting and fishing lodges and clubs.

— a taxidermist at work demonstrating his craft.

— a FREE fishing reel repair clinic (labor only) all 4 Show days.

The Coast Guard will be on hand to demonstrate water safety and take applications for their Power Squadron classes. The kids will love the live duck marsh and the retrieving dogs working on the 20' x 60' pond.

Daily Hours: Sat., Noon to 10 P.M. - Sun., Noon to 9:30 P.M. - Weekdays, 4-10 P.M.
